McGILLFirst Add-
Emmet Hughes

Mr. Emmet Hughes' book, "America the Vincible," is reminiscent of the little candle which throws its gleam far in a dark and naughty world.

It gives us a bit of light on American foreign policy. And in so doing, it indicates that the late John Foster Dulles coldly put down all argument against his concept of U.S. state action in Asia and Europe and, more to the point, received presidential backing.

Mr. Hughes was certainly called in both as a thinker and a writer in the great crusade to elect President Eisenhower in 1952, and to reelect him in 1956. He properly was valued for his knowledge, which is great, for his ability to think, which is of top quality, and for his skill at communication—which is that of an artist. It was he, for example, who is credited with having sensed the American mood and brought off the political coup d'état which turned the Stevenson defeat into a rout... if nominated Gen. Eisenhower would go to Korea.

After 1956 Mr. Hughes was called in to do repair jobs in the often torn fabric of domestic policy. He was, in the bright lexicon of the old Roosevelt days, an administration brain-truster—and a superior one.

Policy Results

This bold and well-argued book reveals that Mr. Hughes and others in the administration must have been greatly disappointed in the policy results which grew out of the visit to Korea—though the political net was most effective. That there existed a considerable disenchantment in echelons below Mr. Dulles is underscored by the theme of this ably written book. It is as well organized as a brief prepared for a major argument before the top court. It has a certain fervor which makes us know that Emmet Hughes feels very strongly about the bankruptcy of American foreign policy.

That Secretary Dulles' methods have nowhere "aved nor availed" is plain. Mr. Hughes documents this somewhat galling fact of our life with precision. There is almost a cold courtesy in the manner of it. But it is that of the punctilious duelist who knows he is about to dispatch his opponent. Since Mr. Dulles is gone from this world, there is no mention of his name nor is there any personal attack. But his policy of bombast, of proclamation, and of positions taken in the knowledge there was no possible way to sustain them is mercilessly stripped of all rhetoric and pompousness.

Massive retaliation was massive bombast. Liberation was a cruel hoax, plain from the beginning to all save Mr. Dulles. Agonizing reappraisal was merely agonizing, and never a reappraisal. All exacting demands of geography, economics and political reality were ignored. America seemed to practice diplomacy by the "rite of incantation". . . .

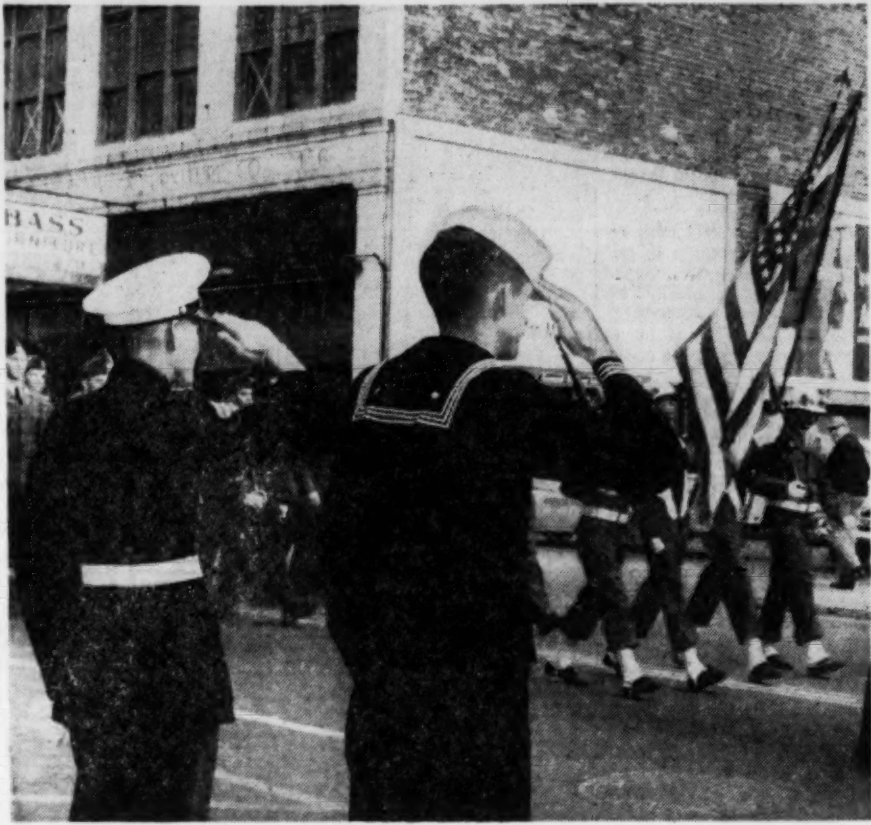

Utter Collapse

So, we came, finally, to 1959 and another secretary of state was at Geneva. He, in effect, confessed the utter collapse and emptiness of America's (Mr. Hughes means Dulles') policy in the quick abandonment of it and the proposal of new formulae for the German and Asian problems. . . .

Perhaps Mr. Hughes' basic thesis is that military power and international politics cannot be separated. This goes contrary to this country's precepts as dictated by the founding fathers and bolstered since by custom and example. The civilian and the military must always be separated—we have said. And we have given to the civilian sole custody of policy.

This, Mr. Hughes thinks, is one of the several illusions which have brought us to grief.

One wonders where the President fits in all this. Mr. Hughes was close to him. There must have been a few cold hours of discussion after which Mr. Dulles was given carte blanche. . . . The light cast by the Hughes' book is the first to reveal evidence of a bitter resistance to Mr. Dulles within the Eisenhower administration.

Jobs Drop:
Mitchell
Eats Hat

By RICHARD E. MOONEY

(Copyright 1959, The New York Times Co.)
WASHINGTON—Secretary of Labor Mitchell ate his "hat"—white, with mocha icing and a chocolate band—on the steps of the Labor department Wednesday, because October's employment figures were not what he had predicted.

He said at the labor movement's unemployment rally here in April that if unemployment were not down to less than three million in October, and if employment were not more than 67 million, "I will eat the hat you said I was talking through."

The October estimates, published Wednesday, were 3,272,000 unemployed and 66,831,000 employed.

The hat Mitchell ate was a hat-shaped, three-layer cake, and

Some Lil Boys
Tote in Pockets

What do small boys carry in their pockets?

Patrolman G. P. Hicks stopped four—ranging in age from 7 to 12—at Bass street and Capitol avenue, SW.

Hicks found stuffed in their pockets: a jar of peanut butter, a pair of pliers, a small lantern, a roll of fishing line, a flashlight, a screwdriver and a broken wrist watch.

Hicks said the four admitted pilfering the items from cars parked in the section. They were turned over to Fulton juvenile authorities.

United Fund Races
For Noon Deadline

Will United Appeal's "Operation Countdown" count up to that $3,327,314 Atlanta needs to continue Community Chest and Red Cross programs in three counties next year?

Weary volunteers who rang doorbells and manned telephones into the hours of darkness Wednesday will have the answer at noon Thursday.

Meanwhile, they're not holding their breath. Instead, they're still "scratching" for pennies, dollars and big bills.

If your United Appeal gift isn't in yet, there's still time. Operation Countdown headquarters will open at 6:30 a.m. Thursday in the Fulton National Bank Building. You can bring a donation there; pledge it by telephoning Jackson 3-7511, extension 466, or mail your check to United Appeal, Box 1038, Atlanta 1.

Final tally will be made at a Dutch-treat "victory" luncheon set for 12:15 p.m. Thursday at the Progressive Club.

Farmer Tells How He Cut Off His Arm
With Penknife to Free It from MachineBy HENRY AHL
As Told to the Constitution

I should've turned the engine off before I tried to clean out that corn picker. But I didn't, and that was my biggest mistake.

I climbed down off the picker to get it unjammed. When I reached in, the roller caught the fingers on one hand and began pulling my arm in.

It pulled my arm in to between the elbow and wrist and crushed the bone. I started yelling for help. But nobody was around and the machinery was running. Nobody could hear me.

(Editor's note: Henry Ahl, 47, used a small pocketknife to amputate his left arm when it became entangled in a corn picker at his farm near Alma. Ahl is now recovering in the Bacon County Hospital at Alma. This is how Ahl told his story Wednesday.)

I was standing up when my arm got caught. After a while I managed to crawl up on top of the machine and lie down.

Finally, when nobody came, I took my knife out of my right-side pocket and opened it with my teeth. I decided I'd have to cut off my hand to get free because the bone was already crushed.

I cut a little bit at first just to see how bad it would hurt.

Carter, who helped get me to the hospital.

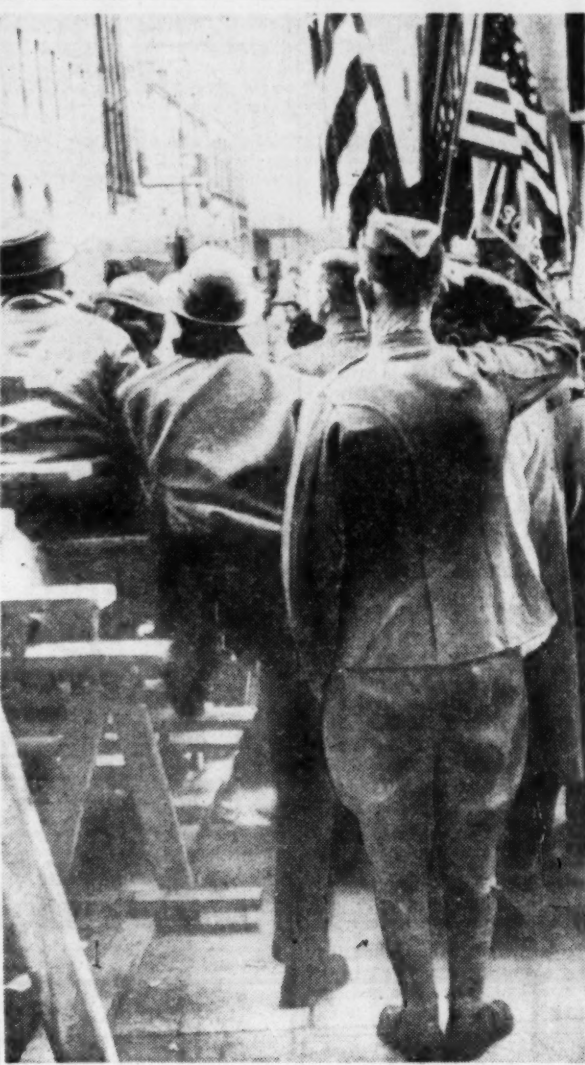

It seemed like I was there for hours, but now I know the whole thing just lasted a few minutes.

Would I do the same thing over again? No, sir, I wouldn't. I would turn off that corn picker before I tried to unjam it.

Right now, all I want to do is get out of the hospital and get back to work.

I sure did hate it that I lost my left hand. It was just like most folks losing a right hand. I'm left-handed.

I got on the tractor, which was still running, and started back for the house about a quarter of a mile away. On the way, I met my neighbor, Elijah

Defense Counsel Kept

Ray Brought to HimBy JACK NELSON
Constitution Staff Writer

DUBLIN—Former sales tax official W. W. Coleman swore Wednesday that Carl K. Nelson Sr., chief defense counsel in the Cordell-Green tax fraud case, kept him "posted" on developments of the case and tried to get him to have a state witness come to Dublin.

According to Coleman, Nelson kept him informed of Laurens County developments in the case until Monday when the former tax official announced in Fulton Superior Court that he had turned state's evidence.

Coleman testified about Nelson's conversations with him during direct examination, then blurted out details under cross-examination by the defense counsel.

Coleman said that on Oct. 30—while a Laurens grand jury was considering an indictment against former sales tax director Joseph W. Ray—Nelson told him to get in touch with Ray and have him contact an Atlanta attorney.

Nelson told him, Coleman swore, to have the attorney bring Ray "down here and they would take care of this situation."

Coleman said that he did not recall the attorney's name, but that he was head of the Georgia

Melvin C. Willett, who teaches American history at Freehold Regional High School, decided to give his little lesson after a class discussion on rigged television quiz shows.

"As we discussed the subject, I became perturbed at the attitude of most of the students," he said. "They felt that because of the big money prizes involved and because it was not illegal, it was all right for quiz contestants to accept answers."

Lynch Case
Jury Jan. 4

JACKSON Miss. (P)—U.S. Dist. Judge Sidney Mize said Wednesday he would present the Mack Charles Parker lynch case to a federal grand jury Jan. 4.

Mize said the Parker case probably would be handed to a jury at Biloxi, but he may present it to one at Jackson.

"Within the next 10 days I will let you know definitely," Mize told U.S. Atty. Robert Hauberg.

The Justice Department asked for a grand jury session to hear the case after the Pearl River County grand jury last week did not return any indictments on state charges in the death of Parker. The 23-year-old Negro was pulled from his Poplarville jail cell April 25 and shot to death.

Parker was killed two days before his trial on charges of raping a pregnant white woman while her young daughter watched.

Mize said the Justice Department asked for a grand jury session in Jackson Dec. 16 or as soon afterward as possible to investigate the Parker case.

Paraders Demand Firing of Menon

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Parading students Wednesday demanded the ouster of Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon, accusing him of a "brazen-faced defense of Chinese aggression in Tibet."

Menon, a controversial figure because of his leftist tendencies and his views on Red China, has been attacked in the Indian press since the Chinese Communists began encroaching on what India deems its Himalayan frontier.

The demonstration ended with 300 shouting students leaving for Prime Minister Nehru a memorandum saying Menon has forfeited "the confidence of the people in his patriotism."

"Menon's brazen-faced defense of Chinese aggression in Tibet, which has been the root cause of our present troubles, and his persistent advocacy of China's cause inside and outside the United Nations, to the annoyance of all well-wishers of India, has made it clear he is unfit to represent India in any international forum, much less lead its armed forces," the memorandum said.

Nehru is away on a tour. He always has staunchly defended his defense minister.

The demonstration had been planned as a greeting to Menon on his return from New York where he fought a U.N. resolution condemning the suppression of the Tibetan revolt last March. He also vainly championed Red China's admission to the U.N.

The gaunt, wavy-haired Menon tarried in London, however. The student leaders said they will greet him at the airport with slogans calling for his resignation when he does return Thursday.

Trainmate of Casey Jones Takes That Last Long Ride

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The last surviving trainman who accompanied Casey Jones on his famous fatal ride in 1900 died Wednesday in a railroad hospital.

William Henry Crittenden, 81, was riding in an express car behind Casey's engine when it slammed into the rear of a freight train in Vaughan, Miss., killing Jones and giving birth to a bit of American folk history.

Jones and his fireman hooked their engine onto the train in Memphis. They were running about an hour and 30 minutes late and were trying to make up the time when the crash occurred.

Crittenden said he had just awakened from a nap when the engine plowed into the other train. He was knocked down by a flying piece of baggage that injured him. Jones was killed and the fireman jumped to safety before the wreck.

Cut Cable In Atlantic Is Probed

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Telephone & Telegraph Co. said Wednesday one of its main trans-Atlantic telephone cables has been damaged off Nova Scotia—just how, it does not yet know.

Earlier, the Navy reported in Washington that the Canadian government had asked for two patrol planes to scout the cable break area. The planes encountered poor visibility and turned back.

FIVE BREAKS

The damage point or break is the same area where five breaks occurred last February. At that time, an American naval party boarded a Soviet trawler to check on whether it had caused the breaks.

An AT&T spokesman said the cable ceased to function Monday morning. He said the company cannot now tell whether it was cut by a ship or damaged by some natural accident.

36 CONVERSATIONS

The cable carries up to 36 telephone conversations simultaneously and is the westbound half of one cable system. The AT&T has two such systems.

The spokesman said additional radio-telephone circuits have been set up and there has been no appreciable delay in service.

He said there will be no way to tell the nature of the damage until a repair ship, scheduled to sail Wednesday night, gets to the area.

Berlin Reds Ban

Bishop's Pamphlet

BERLIN (UPI)—The Communist East Berlin government Wednesday banned circulation of a pamphlet by Lutheran Bishop Otto Dibelius which stated that Christians do not owe allegiance to the East German regime, because it is godless.

The pamphlet was a reprint of a letter Dibelius wrote on the subject. The East Germans said distribution of the pamphlet violated their laws.

Ike, Fact-Finders Push Steel Peace

Board Convened to Head Off Renewal of Strike in January

By ROBERT BARKDOLL

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Eisenhower re-convened his special steel fact-finding board Wednesday to keep an eye on union-management negotiations and help try to prevent renewal of the steel strike next January.

At the same time, the President called on both the United Steelworkers Union and management to recognize their responsibility to the public and reach a quick settlement of their dispute.

REQUIRED BY LAW

The fact-finding board is required by the Taft-Hartley Law to participate in union-management talks for a 60-day period dating from Nov. 7, when the Supreme Court upheld the injunction that halted the strike for 80 days.

The board will work with federal mediation chief Finnegan, who is responsible for renewed negotiations. Finnegan is giving the industry about two weeks to resume production before calling for new talks.

At the end of the 60-day period, the fact-finders will report to the President on the status of negotiations and on the final settlement offer made by management.

MEANY PESSIMISTIC

The National Labor Relations Board then has an additional 15 days to conduct a vote among the steelworkers on the final company offer. After another five-day period the union will be free — Jan. 26 — to strike again.

AFL-CIO President Meany and other union leaders are pessimistic about chances of agreement before the anti-strike injunction expires. Meany called on organized labor Wednesday to gird itself for "the battle that seems certain to begin again" Jan. 26.

Meantime, most steel mills reported a steady increase in production, moving faster toward their peak than originally expected. Reports from Pittsburgh said the industry should hit 60 per cent of capacity by the end of the week.

But the strike that lasted for 116 days continued to have repercussions in other industries.

STRIKE REPERCUSSION

General Motors halted all passenger car production Wednesday at its plants in Willow Run, Mich., and St. Louis because of a steel shortage. The layoff boosted the number of auto workers idled so far to almost 226,000.

White House Press Secretary Hagerty said Eisenhower, in re-convening the fact-finding board, reemphasized that "he sincerely trusts that both sides will recognize their responsibilities to the United States and will continue in negotiation and try to reach a settlement as soon as possible."

De Gaulle Bid Stirs Algeria Mob Cries

ALGIERS (UPI)—Extremist French settlers, angered by President de Gaulle's renewed offer of peace negotiations to nationalist rebels, surged through the streets of Algiers Wednesday chanting, "De Gaulle to the gallows," and "treason."

Police tried in vain to restrain the shouting mob. The demonstrators pushed aside police officials who pleaded for calm.

SAN FERNANDO, Calif. (UPI)—Actor Dale Robertson, star of the television series Tales of Wells Fargo, said Wednesday he will wed a 28-year-old Texas woman Thursday.

Robertson, 36, and his bride-to-be, Lula Mae Harding of Victoria, Tex., took out a marriage license Tuesday at this Los Angeles suburb.

While Algiers war veterans boycotted official Armistice Day ceremonies, demonstrators punctuated the formal rites with angry shouts of abuse against De Gaulle and his government.

After the formal ceremonies, an estimated 1,200 persons, most of them youths, massed in a column and surged through the heart of the capital shouting anti-government slogans.

The noisy demonstrators came after De Gaulle, in a news conference Tuesday, renewed his offer of self-determination for Algeria and again appealed to Mos-

Farm Plan Headed For Rocks Again

The farm program agreed upon by President Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Benson for presentation to Congress next year is little more than a warmed-over version of the plan the administration submitted unsuccessfully at the last session.

Most of the contents of the newly wrapped package are headed for the same fate previously accorded them. Some of them deserve such treatment.

Nevertheless, there is a good deal of merit in some of the proposals. The price support program for wheat, for instance, long ago should have received a complete overhaul. The cost of subsidizing the production and paying for the storage of this product over a period of years have exceeded all reason. But opposition from the major wheat-growing states again will stifle drastic changes.

Among other controversial steps advocated by the administration is an expanded rural development program to assist farmers in the low income areas to attain a higher standard of living. The purpose has a nice-sounding ring and there is no doubt but what the small operator benefits the least from present national farm policy.

But it is difficult to imagine how the government, in this era of highly mechanized, scientific farming, can possibly give the unskilled and unequipped farmer anything more than temporary relief in his efforts to scrape up a living from the soil.

It would be far more practical in the long run for the government to assist such farmers in making a transition to other types of work.

At any rate, change in national farm policy is something to work toward. But as for the administration's immediate suggestions, about the only one that's a sure bet for approval is that which calls for finding new uses for farm products. Surely none can argue against that.

Florida Alumni Bring Discredit to Football

A small group of arrogant, vulgar alumni of the University of Florida are leading a drive to fire Coach Bob Woodruff, whose 10 years at Gainesville have been successful ones, though lacking in the glamor of bowl victories.

The president of the university has sustained the coach. The intellectual depravity of the group is starkly revealed by a reported comment to the president, Dr. Wayne Ritz, as follows: "If we have to get your job to get Woodruff's then you'll both have to go."

If the Florida board has any character it will defy these alumni who support the football scholarship plan and will further consider the abolishment of scholarships. Here is a case where the football tail is wagging the educational dog.

There is just one happy aspect to this gangster-like blackmail. It is that in good time educational institutions will realize that this sort of alumni support is destructive and will utterly repudiate it, placing football in its proper place. It has a place. But it is not that of a high-pressure big-time bowl business to glorify the vanity of immature alumni and their associates, the synthetic alumni who follow only winning teams.

All Our Best Wishes To Archbishop O'Hara

Archbishop Gerald Patrick O'Hara, Apostolic Delegate from the Vatican to Great Britain, has resigned as Bishop of the Diocese of Savannah. Pope John, in accepting it, gave him an honorary title as head of the ancient parish of Pessinus in Asia Minor, site of an early Christian church. It is now an Archbishopric.

Archbishop O'Hara has been away from Georgia for more than a decade but his memory is as green here as the flag of old Ireland itself. When he came to Georgia he stirred the diocese, which then included all the state, into an activity never before experienced. He got things done. A man of great charm and personality, he won the hearts of all.

When the Cathedral of Christ the King was to be dedicated he invited the then Exalted Wizard of the Ku Klux Klan to attend the dedication. The Klan then consisted of a small group banded together to sell asphalt to the state. The late Dr. Hiram Evans, a shrewd man, was smart enough to accept. In the old pre-Evans days of fraud and violence the Klan had owned the property on which the Cathedral was built and the beautiful old pillared home next door had been the Klan palace—replete with drunkenness, plottings against the Catholic Church, and production of extremist, fanatical pamphlets. Dr. Evans attended, quietly and with great piety, while the solemn Latin ritual of consecration was unfolded before him.

In 1950 then Bishop O'Hara was expelled from Romania by the Communists on false charges of espionage. He has served as Apostolic Delegate in Ireland and for some years in London. He had held the Savannah title out of love and sentiment for the state.

We regret, but understand, the breaking of that tie but know his heart still is with us. And so we salute him with affection and hope he will come back to see us.

FPC Sits on Hands As U.S. Public Pays

After the whopping rate increase just slapped on Atlanta and Georgia natural gas users as a result of a hike in wholesale rates from Southern Natural Gas Co., of Birmingham, it comes as pretty much of a shock that another similar increase is in the making.

Southern, of course, blames gas producers for the increase, claiming it only acts as the pipeline distributor.

Meanwhile, the Federal Power Commission, which is supposed to be the final arbiter and protector of the public, sits on its hands. The rate increases are put into effect by the companies pending its decisions. Whenever it suits FPC's convenience—a year or two or maybe more—it will issue its decision, in all probability in the affirmative.

Several years ago there was a determined drive in Congress and a nationwide pressure lobby to remove natural gas producers from FPC regulation. It was mounted and supported by the major oil companies. It failed because it was recognized for what it was, an effort to exploit further a great natural resource without restrictions of any kind.

Now the producers seem to be winning their battle without help from Congress or hindrance from the FPC.

Somebody ought to tell the public what's going on. It would be interesting to know, for instance, whether this is a deliberate effort to reduce the competitive position of natural gas versus other fuels.

The public at least should expect some honest answers from the FPC. Trends being what they are and next year being an election year in which campaign coffers must be filled, there doesn't appear to be much hope. The oil and gas interests are powerful, indeed.

To its credit, the Atlanta Gas Light Co. has fought the wholesale rate increases. But that has not prevented inflationary fuel costs which account for a big item in costs of living.

Dr. Dodge Long Outlived Controversy He Stirred

Dr. David Witherspoon Dodge is dead in Washington, D.C., at 73 and it is a commentary on how swiftly things change that his name has little meaning to most Georgians.

Yet in the '30's he was viewed by many as surely a dangerous radical, a leftist and a person probably in league with the devil.

Dr. Dodge was a pastor in Atlanta, coming here from Presbyterian pastorate in two major cities in South Carolina. Here he filled the pulpit at the Central Congregational Church.

He was much criticized because he ran free movies in his church basement on Sunday nights to attract children from the streets. He was the object of abuse because he advocated Sunday baseball and movies for the thousands who lived in city boarding houses and apartments and found Sunday afternoons and nights lonely and empty.

In the great depression of the '30's he saw the agony of the poor and the exploited. Finally he could endure it no longer. He left the ministry to become a CIO organizer and counselor. In that time John L. Lewis was denounced by some as anti-Christ and the CIO was regarded as an arm of hell itself.

So it is that Dr. Dodge, who lived a useful life and who stirred up people to talk and think, can die in November, 1959, knowing that all the things which he supported at such cost long ago came to be accepted as commonplace parts of our lives.

Dallas Morning News

Taxpayers with incomes in the $5,000-$10,000 range made up 29.1 per cent of the 1958 total. They shelled out almost 40 per cent of the total personal income tax paid to Washington.

This is the finding of the Commerce Clearing House of Chicago. It is based on study of 60 million tax returns.

The same study shows that only one out of every 2,000 taxpayers has an income of more than $100,000—and the number is rapidly diminishing.

Not only is the income tax bearing out Marx's prophecy as an economic lever. It is also hitting the Marxists' target of the middle class with peculiar vengeance.

Atlantan Says Teen-agers' Immature Acts Should Disqualify Them for Driver Permit

Atlanta — I would like for all parents to consider very seriously the following:

I received the news last night that a 15-year-old girl friend of my kid sister was killed in an automobile accident involving several teen-agers. This is the second such accident in which a teen-age girl who was a junior in our high school has been killed in less than one year. It could have been my sister. It was somebody's daughter. Laws should be passed prohibiting the issuance of a driver's license to a high school student. They're much too young and immature to get under the wheel of a car that weighs almost two tons and that will exceed the speed of 100 miles per hour and carry your daughter or your son to his death.

Wouldn't it be better to have a live, "very misunderstood and persecuted" daughter than a dead one who was allowed to do almost as she pleased? Aren't you actually doing her a greater injustice by letting her go out with a boy who is a reckless driver than you are when you keep her home? Teen-agers simply are not capable of thinking maturely when it comes to going along with the crowd. And it's all too easy for a group of kids to get together and feel like doing something reckless.

With a car it's very simple. It has the power under the hood necessary to enable you to be really reckless. It's a heady feeling... but it often leads to death. Don't make the mistake of believing for a moment that you can always tell if a teen-age boy is reckless or not. Many of my dates have told my parents they would drive carefully, but when we got out and met up with another couple in another car who wanted to race us, we never turned them down. I didn't especially feel that my life was in danger. But it certainly was! If teen-agers are not allowed to drive, these things cannot happen.

Lithographers Union Sees Automation as Employe Aid

The recent convention of the Amalgamated Lithographers of America has marked another step forward in the unique efforts of this union to cope with the problems of automation in the interests of its members—which certainly don't conflict with those of the employers and the public.

The ALA has long been committed to the theory—proved true in its industry—that technical improvements and more efficient organization means more business in the long run, with greater income for the employees and expanding employment in spite of the inevitable job dislocations.

Last year the ALA set up a special committee of union officials which had three objectives: first, to get all the information possible—through close contact with equipment manufacturers and employers—as to new machines, materials and methods in the industry; second, to inform the union members of important changes to come; third, to work with the locals—and with employers, too—in dealing with the human problems of change in the most effective and least disturbing way.

This is sound doctrine. It should be far more widely accepted than it has yet been in the automation revolution of today.

bearers for the Democratic Party in '40, I am passing on to you the following possibility in the hope you may see fit to endorse him.

The obvious candidate is Charlie Van Doren. He could go on TV with his little dog Chess and with his wife in a plain, Democratic installment plan mink coat and bare what is left of his soul. This would be doubly effective since we could lend credence and confidence to the performance by having in the background a couple of Pinkertons and the little man from Manufacturers Trust.

There are limitless possibilities. We could discard the outmoded donkey as a party symbol and adopt instead the isolation booth. And what better slogan for any candidate than: "The Man With The Answers?"

Adlai Stevenson, poor fellow, made the basic mistake of ignoring the favorite Madison avenue premise that one should never attempt to sell two themes to John Q. Moran simultaneously. He offered both intelligence and integrity. Obviously, since one must be sacrificed, it is the latter which should go.

PETER J. FRINK.

Hogansville — Certainly we'll swallow Van Doren and his belated explanation! Didn't we watch Nixon confess all on TV with family and dog at his side? And then didn't we elect him vice president of the United States?

It's just a pity Van Doren isn't in politics where we could show him how we appreciate such honesty.

Covington — As the wife of a disabled veteran I wish to take this means to thank Pete Wheeler for the stand that he has taken regarding the construction of the Chinese veterans hospital on Formosa.

When is the American public going to wake up and start following the advice of Wheeler and others like him who are working so desperately for the welfare of our veterans and demand to know why America can play Santa Claus to the whole world yet has

Ranga Riddle

Raises Row

The Bill Truby Ranga-riddle seemed an innocent diversion. I expected no trouble. But you never can tell. Atlanta Dave Kulman called to say he had finally puzzled out the riddle of the Ranga's, but it had cost him half a day's work and he was upset over the loss of time. Then Charlie Elliott, a big-game hunter, swamp prober and writer, called with the explanation and a similar complaint. Charlie had lost Monday morning at the typewriter wrestling with the Ranga wrangle.

Both Kulman and Elliott got it right.

I'll review the story. The explorer must find a truthful guide into the Ranga swamp-land. White-footed Rangas could tell no lies, the ones with black feet could tell no truth. The man met three natives wearing shoes and must choose one on whom he could count.

A. C. Dickey, county school superintendent at Eatonton, gives the summation so succinctly I'll quote him directly: "I have never met a Ranga—black-footed or white-footed. However, Bill Truby's riddle seems so simple that there must be a flaw some place in the following:

1. No. 1 had to say that he had white feet, because:

a. If black-footed he would be compelled to lie about it.

b. If white-footed he would be compelled to tell the truth.

2. Therefore, No. 2 told the truth when he said that No. 1 said he had white feet.

a. Therefore, No. 2 has white feet.

b. Consequently, No. 3 lied and therefore has black feet.

3. HOWEVER, No. 1 could have either white feet or black feet.

And I was just as wrong Tuesday in saying White shot Thaw. The bullet went the other way.

YOU DON'T SAY: Sen. Humphrey of Minnesota told Iowa teachers the other day, "Stay in your classrooms. Help is on the way." Meaning by "Help," Hubert Horatio Humphrey Jr., "And in Wichita, Kansas Legislator Jack Graves told college students, "You don't have to throw money away to be a Democrat." Exactly what John Sammons Bell has been telling Paul Butler.

HIGHLINE: Have you tried to buy a crosscut saw lately? Either we have tried the "wrong" places or we are living in the "wrong" age. But we don't need a power saw.—Ralph Owen, N. Georgia Tribune.

Irate Buyers Back Fixed Goods Claim

In this business you write for weeks sometimes and never hear an echo. It's like dropping a pebble down into the Grand Canyon. Then you'll write something that gets everybody all steamed up. Right now, for instance, the letters are pouring in about a piece I wrote the other day saying that it seemed to me there was some cheating going on elsewhere than in television shows.

Manufacturers, I said, seemed to be building obsolescence into their products, making them flashy and pretty to look at but constructing them so they would break or wear out just about the time the guarantee ran out.

The letters of comment have been angry letters. But not at me. The public's ire has been directed at the manufacturers. The ladies, for instance, are particularly sore about nylon stockings. They say the nylons you got just after the war lasted forever. Now you can't get a pair of nylons that won't pop a run no matter how high a price you pay. It's obvious to a lot of folks that nylons just aren't being built to last. And the ladies don't buy the manufacturer's argument that the nylons pop because they are so sheer and they are sheer because the women demand them to be thin as spider webs.

A man writes in with a curious complaint. The manufacturers of tennis racket strings have weakened their product, he said. You used to be able to get a nylon racket string so tough and durable it would last almost indefinitely. Now both gut and nylon strings wear out in two weeks at the most, he says.

Not all the letters were just laymen's squawks. A consulting structural engineer writes: "I strongly suspect many of our major industries are involved in one of the greatest rackets the world has ever known. It is based on the assumption that the public is a vast herd of stupid cattle who will buy anything and pay any price for it if it's flashy enough to look at."

A manufacturer writes that not all the trouble lies in the manufacturer's desire to build obsolescence into his product. The trouble lies in the fact that in most industries the individual workman just won't do a good job. He does a slipshod job because he has no pride in what he's doing and if the inspector tries to hold the standards up a strike starts.

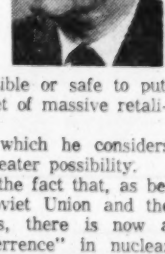

One-time vice president of one of the big companies that manufactures light bulbs wrote to support my theory that bulbs are built to burn out. The companies, he said, will argue that the more fragile bulbs give more light per watt than the long-lasting bulb, and the U.S. Bureau of Standards says this is so.

But, he added, you could make out an unshakable case if you got access to the profit and loss statements of the light bulb manufacturers. "The bulb business amounts to about 200 million dollars a year and profits often reach as high as 40 to 50 per cent."

Maybe so, I don't know. All I know is I surely touched a nerve when I wrote about America producing shoddy goods. The thing that surprised me was the number of people who thought so, too, and were pretty sore about it.

Is U.S. Prepared For Limited War?

WASHINGTON—Gen. Maxwell Taylor has the credentials to raise the most sober and searching warnings about the state of the nation's defenses and to question whether it is either sensible or safe to put nearly all our military eggs in the one big basket of massive retaliation.

What Gen. Taylor is saying — and I think he deserves to be listened to attentively by Congress and the country—is that it is urgent to take a new look at the now "old look" of the administration's whole defense program. He seriously doubts that it fits today's world of nuclear stalemate and he contends that we are mired in a defense philosophy and a defense budget which have been outdated by events and experience.

It seems to me that Gen. Taylor is raising the right question at the right time in the right way. In his current series of three articles in Look magazine and in his forthcoming book, "The Uncertain Trumpet," soon to be published by Harper's, he is writing with candor, with directness, but without any personal rancor. He is making a grave mistake — jeopardizing our security, curtailing our diplomacy and weakening our capacity for massive retaliation.

He argues against the military strategy of preparing almost exclusively to deter and fight a general nuclear war, since these preparations will not cope with limited war which he considers by far the greater possibility.

In view of the fact that, as between the Soviet Union and the United States, there is now a "mutual deterrence" in nuclear power, he contends that it is extremely important to be able to cope quickly with limited aggressions since, if unopposed, they will undermine our whole world position and if resisted with inadequate means, may expand into a general nuclear war.

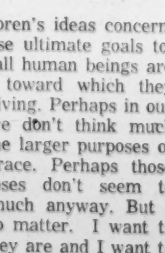

In other words, nearly exclusive reliance on massive retaliation, without balanced strength to resist limited aggression, is an invitation to limited war which, he argues, we are not equipped to counter.

To replace the concept of massive retaliation, Gen. Taylor advocates the strategy of flexible response, which would require strengthening of limited-war capabilities so that we would not have to yield to local aggressions through being able to fight only the big war.

I am not qualified to say that Gen. Taylor is unqualifiedly right but I am convinced that he is right in raising these questions with the greatest energy and earnestness so that we can make sure that we are not carried along on a wrong course.

Has This Become 'Lost Generation'?

Dr. Mark Van Doren, writing in the Saturday Review, offers these words which are worth our consideration: "The crisis appears... that in the age of science we do not know what we are doing, or why we are doing it, or whether we should. We have lost the sense of where the center is, and therefore where the boundaries are. We are feverishly active, toward we do not know what end."

There has been a good deal of talk about the "lostness" of modern man. Is modern man "lost"? Have we lost our sense of direction? Have we no meaningful goals? If modern man is lost, then individuals like you and me are lost, too. When we think of ourselves, and not merely about human beings according to some foggy and abstract dimension, we ought to become concerned. I am concerned. I don't want to be lost. If I am now lost, I want to find my way again.

A hundred or more years from now there will be historians who will survey our generation and make comments on how we lived and what we lived for. Perhaps they will say that we belonged to a "lost generation." That will be too late to do us any good. If we are in trouble, I think we ought to do something to help ourselves. I believe we can.

I don't believe that we can improve upon Dr. Van Doren's definition of "lostness." He says that lostness means that we do not know what we are doing, or why we are doing it, or whether we should be doing what we do. As individual human beings, we may not feel lost. We are too

Child Guidance Staffs to Fight Crime Are Urged

By MARION GAINES
The Atlanta Citizens Crime Committee was told Wednesday that a "properly staffed and properly administered" child guidance program in Atlanta schools could well be "the first line of attack" on juvenile delinquency here.

The crime panel heard, but didn't formally adopt, a three-member subcommittee report that declared the city school system now "lacks an adequate guidance program" . . . not only in the number of personnel but in the lack of training by some of those holding "guidance and counseling jobs."

The report encompassed other "preventive weapons" in the delinquency fight—"the Public Welfare department, the churches, the social and service agencies"—but it was emphasized strongly that the committee wasn't criticizing "any one function of government or any single agency."

Specific recommendations on delinquency will be adopted later, said Morris Abram, committee chairman.

At future meetings, Abram said, the panel hopes to hear from Pete Latimer, president of the Atlanta School Board; Dr. Warren Findley, assistant superintendent for pupil personnel services, and Fulton Juvenile Court Judge W. W. Woolfolk.

Regarding the school guidance program, the subcommittee—composed of Frank Bowen, Warren Cochran and Mrs. Dorothy Floyd—said it realizes "financial limitation imposes something of a stricture."

Child guidance "quite obviously" isn't the "primary function of public education," the report said, but employment of some guidance personnel has proved the School Board "recognizes the value of these services to the community."

It's "not enough to designate some teacher as a 'counselor' or 'guidance person,' the report said, because specially trained and qualified people are needed in those positions."

Repeatedly pointing out that delinquency is invariably "but one problem of a multi-problem family," the report said a single social service agency "cannot hope to provide multiple assistance."

A way "must be found," the report stressed, to eliminate "duplication of services and agencies" and unite their efforts.

Suspect Slashes His Throat

By KEELER MCCARTNEY
An unemployed truck driver Wednesday ended a two-day conflict with police by slashing his own throat with a razor blade, records showed.

John Edwin Denson, 44, of 2280 First Ave., NE, was admitted to Grady Hospital. His condition was listed as "fair."

Detectives R. P. Pitts and C. E. Lyon said Denson ran into the bathroom of his home and slashed his throat with a safety razor blade when they went there to arrest him on a Municipal Court warrant.

POLICE HURT

Two policemen were injured Tuesday in a struggle with Denson, records showed. After being placed under arrest, he escaped Tuesday night from Grady Hospital.

Pitts and Lyon said they placed a lookout on Denson Tuesday on charges of molesting young girls in southwest Atlanta.

Shortly after the lookout was placed, Patrolman W. F. Jones and R. H. Simmons said a woman stopped them on Georgia avenue at Crew street, SW, to report that a man had attempted to force her into a station wagon.

She said she resisted and the man slapped her, then drove away.

DROVE PAST

While they were talking with the woman, patrolmen said, Denson drove past. They said they stopped him and placed him under arrest on charges of drunk driving, drunk on the street and disorderly conduct-disturbance.

While waiting for the police wagon, officers said, Denson slapped Simmons and struck Jones in the eye. They said a second struggle ensued when they attempted to remove Denson from a police car at Grady Hospital.

Denson disappeared from the hospital.

WARRANT ISSUED

Municipal Judge James Webb issued a warrant for his arrest on charges of molesting minors.

Lyon and Pitts said they went to serve the warrant, Mrs. Denson admitted them and called to her husband, who was in a bedroom.

"John, some men are here to see you."

Detectives said Denson ran into the bathroom and despite pleadings from his wife refused to open the door. They added Mrs. Denson opened the door and discovered her husband bleeding profusely from a throat wound.

A blood-stained safety razor blade was found in the bathroom, detectives said.

Owners Selling Condemned Slum Houses

Slum owners are selling their condemned slum property without disclosing it must undergo major repairs or be torn down, the city's Urban Renewal Department reported.

Atlanta's city attorney has ruled out the system used in many other cities to prevent this—the posting of condemnation signs on the property.

Col. Malcolm Jones, urban renewal director, is now seeking the city attorney's advice on another—less effective—means of combating the problem, the filing of a copy of the inspector's report on a house with the deed at the courthouse.

Flynn's Beverly in Black (Slacks) Smooches Beau, Seeks 'Will' in NY

NEW YORK (UPI)—Blonde Beverly Aadland, the late Errol Flynn's 17-year-old "protege," flew to New York Wednesday to wage a battle for what she claims to be her rightful share of his estate, and promptly fell into the arms of a bearded actor who met her plane.

Beverly said she wanted to find what she called the missing fifth page of a will she said the 50-year-old Flynn had dictated to her, leaving her a large share of his estate.

The slender blonde, clad in black capri pants, a black velvet blouse, a black coat and sandals over bare feet, said the missing page of the handwritten will bore Flynn's signature.

When she left the airliner, Beverly was greeted by Johnny MacKay, who appeared with her in the Flynn movie "Cuban Rebel Girls." She hugged and kissed the bearded MacKay, and said she had a part in an Italian film brewing. "You mean pending, not brewing," MacKay said.

"My grandfather used to make bathtub gin and sell it to the Indians," Beverly replied, "and if I want to use the word brewing, I will."

Flynn, swashbuckling veteran Hollywood actor, died of a heart attack in Vancouver, B.C., Oct. 7. Beverly was with him when he died.

Two wills have been filed for probate here. One, filed by Flynn's attorney Oct. 21, left the bulk of his estate to his estranged third wife, Patrice Wymore.

A second "will," unsigned and unwitnessed, was filed here Oct. 26. It was dated Dec. 22, 1958, and named Beverly as Flynn's "true, loyal associate" and a major heir.

French Fear Rebuff In U.N. on A-Bomb

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—France acknowledged Wednesday it may lose its fight to keep the United Nations from passing a resolution opposed to a French atom bomb test in the Sahara Desert.

But Jules Moch, French disarmament expert, reiterated his country is justified in holding the test and will go ahead despite criticism in the United Nations.

"The recommendation on which you will vote will perhaps leave us in the minority," Moch told the U.N. Political Committee.

"I know not what the result will be. If such is the case, at least we will have known the joy of the support of proven friends. We shall know which ones have the most confidence in our word."

Diplomats predicted a resolution supported mainly by Asian-African nations will win committee approval Thursday by at least 40 votes. The resolution urges France to refrain from the test. If there are a large number of abstentions the resolution may win the two-thirds majority required for ratification by the General Assembly.

De Gaulle Snubbed By French Veterans

PARIS—Angry veterans Wednesday boycotted solemn Armistice Day ceremonies here and elsewhere in France in protest to the government's stringent war pension policies.

Their protest took the form of separate ceremonies held apart from the official ones commemorating the end of World War I and honoring the dead of that conflict.

It also amounted to a deliberate snub of President De Gaulle who, after sharply criticizing the veterans' attitude during his press conference Tuesday, appealed to their patriotism and their sense of duty to the nation.

Here in Paris the special stands reserved for the leaders of the most powerful veterans organizations were nearly empty around the Arc de Triumpe during Wednesday morning's ceremony and military parade presided over by De Gaulle.

Wednesday afternoon, veterans carried out their own ceremonies at the Etoile and at the statue of Georges Clemenceau, French premier in World War I, midway up the Avenues des Champs-Elysees. The same procedure was followed by veterans in other cities in France.

Last December, in the interests of budgetary economy, war pensions were halted for all but disabled veterans. Six weeks ago, after increasingly vocal protests by veterans, the government approached a partial restoration of pensions for non-disabled veterans. But the veterans were not satisfied.

Pygmies Joining in Tribal War

BRUSSELS (UPI)—Elusive African Pygmies using poison dart blow guns have joined the giant Watutsi tribesmen of Ruanda in a strange alliance against the Bahutas, according to reports reaching here Wednesday.

The Belgian Ministry of colonies said at least 200 Africans had been killed so far in the fighting which has raged over the northern and central sections of Ruanda.

The situation has become so serious that Belgian paratroopers were rushed Wednesday from the Belgian Congo to Usumbura, administrative capital of the Ruanda-Urundi trusteeship territories.

NO ACTION

The government said they would not go into action immediately but would be held in reserve in case the situation gets out of control.

The Watutsi, although the tallest race in the world and long the masters of the Bahutas, apparently enlisted the aid of the Pygmies when they started losing their battle with the Bahutas.

There are about 300,000 Watutsi compared to 4,000,000 Bahutas.

Reports reaching here said most of the dead so far were Watutsi men. Women and children have been spared.

LITTLE EFFECT

A battalion of 600 colonial army troops sent in from the adjoining Belgian Congo has had little effect on the battle.

So far no European has been harmed.

The Bahutas, fearful that independence for Ruanda might again make them little more than slaves of the Watutsi, have been operating in groups of between 200 and 250.

They strike suddenly at Watutsi villages, kill anyone who resists, burn the villages and surrounding coffee and banana plantations and disappear into the jungle.

London Lines Up With Paris

PARIS (UPI)—Britain supports President de Gaulle's view that two western summit conferences will be required before the East-West summit takes place, diplomatic sources said Wednesday night.

It was understood British Foreign Secretary Lloyd said as much to French Foreign Minister Couve de Murville during four hours of fence-mending talks they had Wednesday.

The sources said the British now accepted that an East-West summit was not going to take place before next April at the earliest.

They realized that the announced date of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's visit to France—March 15—ruled out an earlier East-West summit. At his press conference Thursday, De Gaulle made his meeting with Khrushchev one of three prior conditions to his attendance at any East-West summit.

The sources said the British were in agreement that in view of the long lapse between the Western summit already fixed for Dec. 19 and the possible East-West summit date in April, a second Western summit meeting would be essential.

In the British view, world circumstances might well change in the intervening period. Furthermore, the Western Big Four would need to review the situation in the light of Khrushchev's meeting with De Gaulle.

The diplomatic sources said Khrushchev himself apparently largely was responsible for putting off the prospects of an East-West summit until April. It was understood De Gaulle offered him the choice of any date between Feb. 20 and the end of March for his projected visit.

2 Tennesseans Led from Cave After 19-Hour Ordeal

BLUFF CITY, Tenn. (AP)—Two amateur spelunkers were led safely from a cave near here shortly after noon Wednesday after spending nearly 19 hours deep under the Holston Mountain Range.

Rob Robertson, 27, of Bristol and Wally Campbell of Piney Flats, also 27, were found about three-quarters of a mile inside the cave by one of several search parties made up of members of the Bristol Life Saving Crew and residents of the area.

The two said they entered the cave at 5:35 p.m. Tuesday, planning to explore only a couple of hours. However, one light gave out, and another became weak, they said, and they decided to remain where they were. They had decided only a few minutes before the search party found them to try to work their way toward the mouth of the cave.

DRAMA AT N.Y. FIRE

Firemen Rescue 2 High Above Street

NEW YORK (AP)—Firemen brought two men down safely from a burning apartment building Wednesday in a dramatic rescue eight stories above ground.

The men were clinging to the outside frames of windows of the building on 78th Street, calling for help, when firemen moved an 85-foot aerial ladder into position. It didn't quite reach them.

Firemen William Russo and William Alberda climbed to the top of the ladder. From there Russo went on to reach the trapped men by hooking a scaling ladder to the edge of a window sill.

First Russo rescued Jose Rijes, 40, who was hanging onto the window sill with one hand and dangling over the sidewalk, some 90 feet below.

The ladder was swung to another window, where John Diaz, 35, was clinging. Russo brought Diaz down, too.

Both Rijes and Diaz suffered severe hand and face burns, and smoke poisoning. The firemen were uninjured.

Rijes and Diaz, residents of the building, said they were mixing paint thinner with paint in a top-floor apartment when there was a flash and the room burst into flames.

The fire spread but was extinguished before it could reach lower floors. Other residents got out by the stairway.

Blizzard Rips West, Killing 5

By United Press International
A blizzard with wind gusts up to 50 miles an hour swept through western and central Montana for the second straight day Wednesday, piling up 10 inches of snow in some places.

Winds were so strong at Stampede Pass, Wash., that heavy wet snow was blown about like snow flurries. Southeastern Idaho and southern Wyoming were raked by strong winds which gusted at 67 miles an hour at Laramie, Wyo.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said 10 inches of snow covered the ground at Helena and Billings, Montana.

At least one person had been killed in highway accidents on slippery Montana roads, raising the death toll to five in the two-day blizzard.

Four Air Force officers were killed Tuesday when three jets ran out of fuel in the unexpected storm and crashed near Great Falls, Mont.

The eastern third of the nation had mild weather, although scattered showers spread from southern Florida into Arkansas. An inch of rain hit Miami, Fla.

'Unique' Problem of Old Age Baffles Experts

By HUNTER JAMES

The old-age problem has, itself, come of age.

"To put it in the vernacular, it's the hottest thing in the social field at the moment," said Dr. John Tyler Mauldin, chairman of Georgia's Commission on the Aging.

Last of Series.

The old-age problem has been called an enigma, a unique phenomenon in Western civilization to which none of the old solutions apply.

WHAT'S THE PROBLEM? "We know, of course, that a problem exists, but nobody knows what it is," Dr. Mauldin said. "The more you get into it, the more complicated it becomes."

Confusion is only one sign of its maturity. Another is the growing emphasis on sociology, government and medicine have brought to bear on it in recent years.

The Commission on the Aging is a good example. "There has been a lot of work done in the field," said chairman Mauldin, "but it's been done in phases. Our job is to draw together in one place all the information we can about aging in Georgia."

OTHER STATES STUDY The study, of course, is not confined to Georgia. Similar studies are being conducted in other states as a prelude to 1961's White House Conference on the Aging.

Sociology also is beginning to place more emphasis on the problem. At this moment, a faculty member of Emory University and a graduate student are conducting separate studies in the field.

Dr. J. W. Wiggins, chairman of the Sociology department, is directing a national study to produce new data about a group of elderly people that is seldom written about.

CHARITY CASES KNOWN "Most of the old-age studies have to do with people who are receiving charity in one form or another," he said. "These are the people we know most about. However, 80 or 90 per cent of the older population are not draining from society any economic benefits."

"We felt it would be worthwhile to find out more about them, what kind of plans they have made, etc."

The study is being conducted in 15 states. "Also," Dr. Wiggins said, "we are making separate studies in Florida and California for the obvious reasons. The odd part is that Georgia is not included in the study."

HOPING FOR MONEY "I am hoping we can get money from some source, so that Georgia can be included."

Results of the study will be included in a volume entitled, "A Profile of the Aging, U.S.A." The study is being sponsored by an anonymous foundation.

Dr. Wiggins said there were no conclusions as yet. But he did make a general statement about the old-age problem:

"I think it is wrong for us to have this assumption that the brain deteriorates at a certain age. I think most of us feel that we can look forward to a steady deterioration of our mental powers after a certain number of years; but I do not think that is the case, certainly not until you're past 70."

Mrs. Lois Huff, an Emory graduate student, is conducting a study of her own in the field. With the help of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs and as part of her thesis work, she is examining the nature of society's attitude toward an aging population.

For example, what does a typical young man think of his aging parent? Is he unconsciously antagonistic? And younger people in general? Are they prejudiced toward elderly people?

SURPRISING RESULTS

"I have no conclusions as yet," she said, "but I have been surprised by some of the preliminary results."

"For instance, I have found we subscribe more strongly to a tradition of respect toward age than our retirement laws would indicate."

Mrs. Huff sees the problem as one of conflict between "our ethical tradition and modern materialism."

She sees it also as a "unique problem in Western civilization."

"For the first time," she said, "we have more people demanding than we have supplying. We have the older people of retirement age who are no longer productive and we have the younger people—the under-16 age group—who have not yet become productive."

"This is naturally a double burden on the middle adult group. Obviously, it is an untenable position. But how can we know what the solution is when the problem is unique?"

UNTENABLE POSITION

The position becomes even more untenable when it exists in a small bungalow in the suburbs and not at the old homestead.

"In the old days it was a natural thing," she said, "to have generation after generation of people around the house."

Not so in the suburbs. Mrs. Huff explained another aspect of the problem:

"Grandmother expects the obedience and allegiance she has always had from her daughter, but daughter has her own home. Grandmother cannot get used to a subordinate position when she has always enjoyed a superordinate one. The children see grandmother command and my experience has been that the way you see people is the way you react to people..."

And this, too, is an untenable position.

At the core of the whole matter, at the core of all the conflicts and untenable positions, what? The compulsory retirement regulations, Mrs. Huff said.

"A person is aging," she said,

"when he can no longer get a job because of his age. I think that is one of the latest definitions, and it is true, but old age is also a fullness and fruitfulness."

"A person is supposed to grow more valuable with age, but we do not give him a chance to work."

Is there a solution forthcoming? And if one is found, will it be permanent?

"Hardly," Mrs. Huff said. "I think our society is too dynamic. It is impossible to foresee the situation a hundred years from now."

Meantime, the elderly man with time on his hands and no money in his pocket will have to work out his own solution.

In relieving the eternal boredom of age, the best solution that has been found so far is with the

New Center Planned at Marietta

A new $8 million "metropolitan center" has been planned for development along Marietta's north four lane highway.

The proposed development was announced by Joe F. Grimland, Marietta manufacturer and spokesman for Metropolitan Center, Inc., a new corporation which would own and operate the facilities.

He said the long-range project is to include a 16-story office building of 105,000 square feet, a 120-room motel, and a retail market area which includes space for two multi-story department stores.

Construction is now underway on the first two floors of the office building, he reported.

Completion of the proposed 500,000-square-foot center, most of which reportedly remains to be financed, is anticipated in 1965, Grimland said.

He said the property is located on both sides of U.S. 41 to the south of Austin avenue, with the office building and motel to be erected on the west side of the four lane, and the retail area on the east side.

Pass Pass

Opening lead: King of ♠.

A well chosen sequence of bids led to a virtual laydown slam today.

South opened in third position with one spade, and North was faced with the problem of making the most appropriate response.

A bid of three spades was quickly dismissed. Such a call after a previous pass is not forcing and allows partner the option to pass if he has opened a minimum hand. If a direct raise in spades were to be given, four would be the choice in order to be sure that game would be reached. (It will be observed that after a previous pass, a raise to four spades is stronger than a raise to three.)

North concluded that even a four spade bid might not do justice to the holding which, when revalued in support of spades, becomes worth 14 points and, in full confidence that South would bid again, made a jump shift of three diamonds.

It has long been the firm conviction of this department that a jump in a new suit by a passed hand should be forcing for one round on partner even when the opening has been made on shaded values. This provides responder with greater ease of bidding and, at the very worst, results in playing at a contract one level higher.

South naturally bid three hearts, and North thereupon jumped to four spades. It seemed an ideal hand for the Blackwood convention, so South made the inquiry and, upon confirmation that his partner held one ace, he contracted for six spades. The contract came home with relative ease, after the opening king of clubs lead.

Mystery Skeleton Baffles Crime Lab

Bone fragments found near Columbus last month may have been those of a person who died 100 years ago, the State Crime Laboratory speculated Wednesday.

Columbus authorities have been investigating the possibility the bones were those of Mrs. Jeanette Adams, 18-year-old mother of two children who disappeared May 3, 1949.

The crime laboratory did not rule out that possibility. But its report said after examining the skeleton that insufficient structure remained to determine the age, sex, race or apparent time of death.

Dr. Larry D. Howard, assistant director, speculated that the time of death might have been as much as 100 years ago.

Two small buttons found with the bones indicate the dead person was a female, the report said, but it added the time of death might have been back in a period when that type of button was used on clothing of men as well as women.

Mrs. Adams disappeared under circumstances leading to belief she may have been a victim of the Phenix City, Ala., underworld.

Muscogee County Sheriff E. F. Howell said he had been told by a Phenix City underworld source that Mrs. Adams was "put in a hole—a place where they'll never find her."

Helen Hayes May Retire From the Stage

NEW YORK (UPI)—Helen Hayes, first lady of the Broadway theater, indicated Wednesday she may be considering retiring from the footlights.

Miss Hayes, who had been offered a part in a Broadway-styled comedy, "A Adventure," made the disclosure in a telegram to James P. Davis, the play's author. Miss Hayes had appeared in a summer stock version of the play this year.

"I've thought and prayed over this but don't want to commit myself to yours or any other play until I've come to yearn again for work—which may be never," she said.

"I've talked of retiring for a long time. It may just be I've finally made it without knowing it. Please find someone else to carry the play through to glory. I'm sorry."

Miss Hayes' last Broadway role was in Eugene O'Neill's "A Touch of the Poet."

he said that he had a phony driver's license showing he was 21 years old. He said it was a fad to have a forged license.

Mayor Hartsfield asked if there were any charges against the boy in connection with the beer issue. The mayor said, "It's as bad to condone forgery as it is to sell beer."

The boy said the operator of the store finally stopped asking him for identification and sold the beer without question.

A 16-year-old southeast Atlanta boy testified that he stayed in the car while a companion bought four quarts of beer at the same establishment.

A 15-year-old boy testified he bought beer three times and was never asked for identification. He said he had heard about the phony licenses but didn't own one. He said he and a companion bought two six-packs or a case, depending on the amount they thought they needed.

"We bought the beer on the weekends usually and bought ice and we hid the sack in the woods close to the South Bend swimming pool area," he said.

Under questioning, he said that was the only place they went to buy beer, that there were 25 to 30 boys in the group he ran with and that 60 per cent of them drank beer.

Mark Ingram, 18, 2407 Antwert Dr., SE, who said he was under indictment on charges of breaking and entering and that he was out on a $1,000 bond, testified that an under-age friend bought beer and was never asked for identification. He said that he had never bought beer but had heard about the phony licenses, even though he had none.

Wesley Asinof, attorney for the establishment, asked the witness about a statement to the effect that a Negro was hired to buy the beer. But Ingram said it wasn't true, that they bought the beer themselves.

Bert Wells, 17, of 820 Ormewood Ave., SE, said he had bought beer about ten times at the place, the first time at the age of 16. He said he and his friends were never turned down but once.

He testified, however, that at one time all the boys had agreed to deny everything and then had decided to tell the truth.

Ex-Patient Indicted in Attack Cases

A former mental patient has been indicted by the Fulton County Grand Jury on charges of rape, robbery and assault with battery in connection with assaults on two women.

Three indictments returned against Chandler Martin, 20, of 875 Norcross St., SW, charged him with robbing and criminally assaulting one woman after forcing his way into her car in a South-west Atlanta theater parking lot, and with assault and battery of a second victim.

Martin, according to police, was on furlough from the State Mental Hospital at Milledgeville when the attacks occurred.

In other indictments, the grand jury returned four charges involving illegal furnishing of intoxicants to minors.

Paul Crawford was indicted on four misdemeanor charges alleging that on Oct. 18 he unlawfully sold a half-pint of whisky to two minors on Sunday without a license.

James E. Owens, 18, of 833 Washington St., SW, and Vernon H. Murphy, 20, of 682 Brookline St., SW, the minors Crawford allegedly sold the whisky to, were indicted on charges of furnishing intoxicating beverages to two girls, aged 14 and 15.

In two murder indictments returned by the jury, Eutha Bell Cunningham, 39, Negro, was charged with the Oct. 30 pistol slaying of Emmett Cunningham, 34, her common-law husband, and J. C. Glenn, 70, Negro, was charged with the Nov. 5 pistol slaying of Fannie Dora Jones, Negro.

2 Forest Park Policemen Indicted by Clayton Jury

Two former Forest Park police officers were indicted Wednesday by a Clayton County Grand Jury, one on charges of larceny of a shotgun from the police department, the other on illegal liquor charges.

Tim Smith, who later resigned from the Forest Park Police department, is charged with taking a shotgun that was being held as evidence in a burglary case. Clayton County Sol. Gen. Harold Banke said. According to the charge, Smith took the shotgun in June.

J. A. Adamson Jr., who served in the Forest Park Police department as temporary help and who was released about three weeks ago, was charged on five counts of illegally transporting and selling liquor.

No trial date has been set for either case.

Woodland Ave., SE, said he had bought beer there many times when he was 18 but was later turned down. Still later, he said, he came back for more. Williamson said he had been charged with burglary.

A 16-year-old Northeast Atlanta boy said he had never bought any but that four companions had once bought some. He said they got drunk and went out to Murphy High School, which he attends.

Bill Golf, 17, said he had bought beer but denied that a Negro had bought it. Four of the boys, he said, bought beer and went out to a Murphy High School dance. They smelled of alcohol, he said, and were suspended from school for five days, and that his reward was that he "got out of school for five days."

American Legion Post No. 1 representatives appeared and asked for a retail liquor store license, a permit to sell wine for consumption on the premises, and for sale of beer and wine at headquarters for the Legion Home, 1071 Piedmont Ave., NE. The delegation okayed it.

The Fifth Ward delegation in which the site lies approved it with the understanding that nothing would be sold or exhibited for the public. F. E. Blankenship filed the petition but it had opposition from nearby residents.

Mayor Hartsfield objected to the sale of alcoholic beverages at the club, at the entrance to Piedmont Park. About four years ago, permits for sale of all alcoholic beverages were revoked at the post following the fatal shooting of two men in the bar.

N. J. Aaron Has Part in School Show

Assistant Supt. Norman J. Aaron of Fulton County schools has been asked to serve as supervisor of the school architectural exhibit at the meeting of the American Association of School Administrators.

School Supt. Paul D. West said Aaron, who is in charge of construction and maintenance for Fulton County schools, will handle an exhibit of modern and current school architecture from around the nation.

The school group will meet Feb. 13-17 in Atlantic City, N.J.

Aaron has received regional and national recognition for his abilities in planning school plants and construction. Fulton's building construction program, which Aaron supervises, has achieved building costs 30 per cent below the national averages, West said.

First attention was called to Aaron's ability in 1950, when he supervised the design of the new E. Rivers School at a cost of less than $9 per square foot, West pointed out.

STATE'S WITNESS JOSEPH W. RAY WORE A VARIETY OF EXPRESSIONS AS HE TESTIFIED IN DUBLIN WEDNESDAY

in the case duplicates the charge in the Fulton indictment, the trying of the case here will preclude a trial in Fulton County.)

Contacted in Atlanta, Edenfield said he has been acquainted with Nelson "very pleasantly for many years" and appeared "in his behalf" during Nelson's request for continuance before Judge Alverston.

As for others involved in the tax case, Edenfield said, "I have never met—or had any conversation with—Mr. Ray, Mr. Coleman, Mr. Cordell or Mr. Green. Nor have I ever been advised to have any conversation with them."

Edenfield also said he'd "never heard of or had any conversation with anyone about getting Mr. Ray to go anywhere."

On trial in this legally-entangled case are Clayton Cordell and his partner, State Rep. Harry E. Green, who are charged with conspiring with Coleman and Ray in the embezzlement of $26,224 of Cordell-Green Motor Co. sales tax collections.

Ray and Coleman have testified that they arranged with Cordell to purchase cars from the Cordell firm with money from its sales tax collections.

However, Coleman has not linked Green to the conspiracy and Ray specifically testified that he knew of no part that Green played in it.

Green was not named in the Fulton indictment.

A Laurens grand jury returned a no-bill in the case in favor of both Cordell and Green several months ago. In July Sol. Gen. Harold Ward sent the case back to Fulton County and, on October 9, a grand jury there indicted Cordell. A Laurens grand jury then indicted Cordell, Green and Ray—and a race was on to see whether Fulton or Laurens would try the case first.

Ray apparently evaded trial here by surrendering in Fulton County and pleading guilty. He was sentenced to from two to three years.

TAKES THE FIFTH

Coleman also testified that when he appeared before the Laurens County grand jury in the case last July, he took the fifth amendment and refused to testify. He said he left the car he was driving at the Cordell-Green firm where a radio, a cigarette lighter, a spotlight, vent shields were installed. He said he offered to pay Cordell for it, but said he refused to accept any payment.

Coleman said he and Cordell had been close friends and he emphasized that he did not think Cordell was trying to "bribe" him.

He said Cordell also called him last week and asked him if he were coming to Dublin in this case this week. Cordell told him if he did, Coleman said, that he should take the fifth amendment.

Coleman said he pleaded with Cordell to "take the short way out," but that he told him he would not do that. Coleman later explained that what he meant by this was to enter a guilty plea.

After it became apparent in September, 1958, that the Cordell-Green case was going to break in the press, Coleman testified, he and Ray went to Cordell and asked him to get rid of his tax records.

He quoted Ray as telling Cordell that T. V. Williams Sr., who was revenue commissioner, "said to tear up the records and that would be the last of it."

Cordell replied, according to Coleman, that before he did anything he was going to see his lawyer.

TESTIMONY UNSHAKEN

Several times during rigid cross-examination, Nelson tripped up Ray and Coleman on the many dates connected with the case. However, he could shake neither witness on the testimony that Cordell planned with them the scheme to buy the cars with tax funds.

Ray was under cross-examination for four hours.

Ray testified that he consulted with T. V. Williams Sr. about trying to straighten out the Cordell-Green matter.

Ray said he consulted Williams in September 1958, the night The Atlanta Constitution broke the story about the tax case. He said he gave the commissioner all the details about the embezzlement scheme.

SEES WILLIAMS

Ray said he went to Williams in "desperation," and sought advice. He emphasized that until that time Williams was "not aware of any of this situation." Williams told him to get in touch with Cordell and "have the situation straightened out," Ray said.

He said he and Coleman left early the next morning and met Cordell at a Dublin motel. He said that he and Coleman asked Cordell to destroy the original tax returns kept by the Cordell-Green Co., but Cordell refused, saying he would have to consult his lawyer.

Nelson's exhaustive examination of Ray began with a sarcastic reference to the fact that officials were unable to locate him for either service of a Laurens grand jury subpoena or for arrest on an indictment returned by the Laurens jury.

"Well, Joe," Nelson began, "I see you finally made it. You've been playing hide-and-seek with us for two or three weeks, haven't you?"

Ray denied he had dodged the subpoena, but admitted he hurriedly turned himself in at Fulton Tower in order to evade a trial here on a Laurens charge. Ray's bondsman surrendered him before the Laurens sheriff could arrest him. Then Ray appeared in Fulton court the next day and drew a 2-to-3-year sentence on a guilty plea to several tax embezzlement charges, including one involving the Cordell-Green funds.

"You jumped in jail just as fast as you could then?" Nelson asked.

"Yes sir," Ray replied.

"Joe, you made a deal with the solicitor general (Fulton's Paul Webb) to come down here and testify against Clayton Cordell, didn't you?" Nelson inquired.

Ray replied that he "voluntarily" went to Paul Cadenhead, special assistant Fulton prosecutor, a year or one-and-a-half years ago and gave testimony in all tax embezzlement cases of which he had knowledge.

"And I was promised nothing," he added.

Nelson pounded away at Ray's inability to remember dates and some other details of the case and Ray once said:

"I could forget things . . . my mind was all shot to pieces."

Nelson referred to the alleged conspiracy outlined by Ray as "this fantastic agreement" and repeatedly demanded that Ray admit that Cordell knew nothing about it.

But Ray stuck to his previous testimony and said he and Coleman pointed out to Cordell that the only way they could carry out the scheme was for the tax payments to be remitted in cash. He denied Nelson's statements that he and Coleman had demanded cash payments.

Senate Panel to Prod Regents To Release Land for Prison

A member of the Senate Government Operations Committee made it clear Wednesday that his group has no intention of yielding to a Board of Regents' attempt to squelch negotiations for the possible use of regent-held land for a new state prison.

The Board of Regents Wednesday turned down a proposal—not yet formally presented—that it transfer some of its property near Eatonton to the Department of Corrections for a new prison.

But State Sen. John Greer of Lakeland, secretary of the Government Operations Committee, indicated the General Assembly may still have a word or two in the matter.

The regents approved without discussion or dissent a recommendation of its Committee on Research and Extension that the board "decline to consider any proposal that may be officially transmitted to it for transfer of this land."

But Sen. Greer fired back at the regents with a charge that they seem to think "they're above the legislature."

Sen. Greer has been working with Corrections Director Jack Forrester and a committee from the regents' agricultural extension service in an effort to procure land for the prison.

In response to reporters' questions after Wednesday's meeting, L. R. Seibert, the board's executive secretary, said the board's action in effect "closed the door" to any further discussion of the matter of the land with the Department of Corrections.

"Not only with the Department of Corrections, but anybody else," he said.

Greer told The Constitution: "I'm surprised that the Board of Regents, according to Mr. Seibert's statement, thinks it is above the legislature."

"No proposal has been made by our (Government Operations) committee; we've simply been studying it."

"But regardless of the board's action, I expect to make a report to the full Government Operations Committee and let them decide what to do."

He said he didn't know what would be in the report.

He said his committee has been trying to help the Board of Corrections save a quarter of a million dollars of taxpayers' money by finding land for the prison that wouldn't have to be brought out-right.

At question is part of a 14,000-acre tract in Putnam and Morgan counties to which the regents hold title. Forrester and members of the Government Operations Committee apparently feel that the land would be an ideal site for the proposed new $1½ million prison. Forrester says the new prison is urgently needed to ease crowded conditions at Reidsville State Prison and other units of Georgia's penal system. Gov. Vandiver has indicated he agrees that the over-crowded condition is acute.

In its recommendation to the board, the Research and Extension Committee said it learned of "a possible proposal" for the transfer of 5,000 acres of the 14,000-acre tract near Eatonton from "press and radio reports."

Actually, Sen. Greer and Forrester had been negotiating with a committee of extension service officials, who are under regent jurisdiction, weeks before news media reported the proposal.

In other action Wednesday, the regents authorized Chancellor Harmon Caldwell to confer with Gov. Vandiver and members of the General Assembly regarding the University System's need for additional funds for the 1960-61 fiscal year and regarding proposed legislation to raise the $40 million bonding capacity of the University Building Authority.

They approved a new five-year course in pharmacy at the University of Georgia to replace the present four-year program and named Roger Sheppard Howell, recently retired director of extension at Georgia Tech, to the post of director emeritus of extension.

Slot Defendant Is Rearrested

A Decatur resident was rearrested Wednesday on a bench warrant issued in Fulton Criminal Court on the same charge—possessing gambling devices—that had been dismissed against him in Municipal Court.

L. W. M. Cox, head of the metropolitan lottery squad, said the warrant against Thomas Richard Porter, 33, of 1369 Fenway Cir., Decatur, was obtained in connection with a raid on a vending machine repair shop at 341 Edgewood Ave., NE, in which several slot machines and other devices were seized.

Porter and his brother-in-law,

Walter Vernon Bean, 39, of 3566 Habersham Rd., NW, were arrested, Cox said. At a municipal court hearing Tuesday Bean was identified as operator of the establishment and Porter was identified as a machine repairman. Municipal Judge Luke Arnold freed Porter.

After Porter was released, officers searched his home and seized 18 additional slot machines, Cox related. He said another warrant was issued for Porter's arrest in DeKalb County.

Porter posted the $2,500 bond in Fulton County Wednesday and later was transferred to the De-Kalb jail where he was freed under $2,000 bond, Cox said.

Meantime, Fulton Criminal Court Sol. John I. Kelley said the owner of 17 modified slot machines found in a building at 1182 West Peachtree St., NE, indicated he would surrender Thursday and post bond.

Eisenhower Flying To Augusta Today

of Eisenhower's overseas trip that begins Dec. 3.

He will be accompanied by Thomas E. Stephens, presidential appointment secretary, in a jet plane to be flown by the President's pilot, Col. William G. Draper.

President Eisenhower Wednesday expanded his goodwill tour to include Generalissimo Francisco Franco of Spain and a shipboard conference with the President of Tunisia.

He will fly to Madrid Dec. 21 for an overnight visit with Franco after the conclusion of the Western summit meeting in Paris. The conference with President Bourguiba of Tunisia will take place Dec. 17 aboard a U.S. warship in the Mediterranean.

FRANCO MEETING

The meeting with Franco, first by any U.S. president, will mark a high point in Spanish-American relations which have improved steadily during the past nine years. They reached a low when Franco was openly pro-Axis during World War II.

The conference with Bourguiba will repay a visit which he made here in 1956. It also will show this country's gratitude to Tunisia for refusing to yield to Communist blandishments on the one hand and to Arab extremists on the other.

The White House did not say how long he planned to stay. In Georgia the President will confer with several federal officials on his new budget.

SPAIN "SATISFIED"

The visit to Madrid first was announced by the Spanish government and then by the White House. A spokesman for the Spanish Foreign Office hailed the President's acceptance of a Franco invitation as "a great satisfaction to Spain."

White House Press Secretary Hagerty said Franco's invitation was extended late last August when Eisenhower met in London with Spanish Foreign Minister Castiella during the President's trip to Western Europe.

NO CELEBRATIONS—PALL MALL, Tenn.—World War I hero Sgt. Alvin York and wife Grace examine in their frame home a .410-gauge shotgun that has been in the York family for many years. The 71-year-old veteran, ill and partly blind, said Veterans Day is nothing special to him—"Every war is to end wars and we've still got 'em going on or coming on."

Doomed Monkeys Taste Freedom

SAVANNAH—Six doomed monkeys made a break for freedom at the Union train station here.

Four were recaptured Wednesday afternoon. The other two were reported still "at large" — somewhere — late Wednesday night.

The six monkeys were on their way from the Okatie Monkey Farm at Beaufort, S.C., to research laboratories in Cincinnati, Ohio. There they would have died in the interest of science.

The monkeys escaped from a crate at about noon Tuesday. They scampered to the roof of the station. Twenty-seven hours later the unlucky four climbed into a window of a filing office and were captured.

The other two, apparently the "brains" of the escape, stayed where they were. A trap baited with bananas failed to entice them to come down from the roof. After dark they vanished.

Some of the chasers wanted to shoot the monkeys. "No rifleman is going to shoot those monkeys," Mrs. B. F. Mood, chairman of the Humane Society's anti-cruelty committee, said.

50 S. Africans Seized as Riots Hit Banishing

PAARL, South Africa, (UPI)—Authorities said Wednesday some 50 persons had been arrested after two days of rioting here touched off by the banishment of a woman leader of the African National Congress.

Deputy Police Commissioner I. P. S. Terblanche, whose men used batons to subdue a crowd in Paarl Tuesday said the situation was "well in hand."

Strong police units were standing by to halt any further rioting over the exile to a remote area in Cape Province of Mrs. Elizabeth Mafekeng.

campaign's three general chairmen, reported Wednesday that telephone pledges were coming in "as fast as we can take them." Uncle Sam cooperated with Atlanta's biggest fund-raising effort; although the Post Office was closed for Veterans Day, special mail collections were made so United Appeal gifts would be counted.

Spalding said many firms and individuals in the Fulton-DeKalb-Cobb area served by United Appeal's 70 agencies and programs had "given twice" in a last-ditch effort to put the lagging campaign over the top.

"We still have high hopes, and this last-minute response is giving us all a warm glow," he declared.

Earlier another chairman, Lou Oliver, predicted final tally Thursday will find volunteers $125,000 short of their goal—but said he felt late donations could "take up the slack."

"This drive is too important to Atlanta's future to fail," he summed up. "Success depends now on the accumulation of small gifts. Every Atlantan should feel a personal responsibility. Will your gift be in by Thursday noon? It may make all the difference!"

O'Neil Drama To Open New Academy Home

The Academy Theater will pull its first curtain in its new home at 1429 Peachtree St., NE, when Eugene O'Neil's "Long Day's Journey Into Night" opens Friday for a seven-night run.

The play, directed by Frank Wittow, will run Friday through Monday, then Friday through Sunday next week. Curtain time is 8 p.m. Admission is by reservation only. The first two performances already are sold out. Cast of the O'Neil drama includes Paul Boesing, Martha Tanner, Mac Widincamp and Gloria Maloof.

The new location of the theater is at the rear of 1429 Peachtree St., NE, across from the Pershing Point Hotel.

Bonn Socialists Heckle Spaniard

BONN, Germany, (UPI)—Socialist students yelling "Down with Franco," demonstrated in front of City Hall Wednesday against the "anti-democratic" regime in Spain.

They appeared as Spanish Foreign Minister Fernando Maria Castiella emerged from the building after signing the city's Golden Book for visitors.

Castro To Blast U.S. Anew

HAVANA (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro is expected to make another speech on deteriorating relations with the United States.

A spokesman for a Havana TV station said Castro has accepted an offer to speak Thursday night. It will be Castro's first TV appearance since his angry anti-American speech Oct. 26.

Castro is expected to discuss the growing bitterness between Cuba and the United States, and the disappearance of Maj. Camilo Cienfuegos, the army commander, on a recent plane flight.

Revolucion, newspaper of Castro's 26th of July Movement, devoted a full column Wednesday to "vile rumors" about Cienfuegos, blaming them on the U. S. press.

Cienfuegos is believed to have been lost at sea on a flight from Camaguey to Havana.

Mother Going to Job Gives Birth on Bus

CHICAGO (UPI)—Mrs. Ruby Eiland, 29, on her way to work in suburban Evanston, gave birth to a seven-pound, four-ounce daughter on a bus Wednesday.

Driver C. M. Quist, 62, and patrolman Robert Sedlmayr assisted Mrs. Eiland before the bus reached St. Francis Hospital.

Mitchell pointedly sent slices of it to the principals in the steel strike—R. Conrad Cooper, chief negotiator for the industry, and David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers' Union. In fact, he cut bigger slices for them than he cut for himself.

If there had been no steel strike, or if there had been a shorter one than actually developed, Mitchell probably would have proved right.

He made his prediction one day after publication of the official estimate that there were 4,362,000 unemployed in March, but it was a reasonable assumption that normal trends would have cut it to 2,800,000 by now.

Mitchell said Wednesday that his April remark was "in answer to those cynics who doubted America's ability to pull out of the 1958 recession without massive federal spending programs." His prediction was thrown off only by the strike, he said, and not by any weakness in the economy.

He noted that employment in October was a record for the month, even if it was not as great as predicted. The only months in which it has ever been higher were summer months, which is the time of year when employment is always greatest.

The department's official estimates were released at a press conference after the business on the front steps.

They indicated that unemployment attributable to the strike, not including strikers, was more than 300,000, and that it had risen to nearly 500,000 in early November. Seymour Willbein, deputy assistant secretary of labor, observed that this secondary unemployment will not vanish overnight with the injunction of the strike. He said it will still be an important weight in the November totals, which will be based on the week now in progress.

Unemployment normally declines by almost 200,000 from September to October, but this time it was virtually steady. Consequently, the seasonally adjusted rate of unemployment rose, from 5.6 per cent in September to 6.0 per cent in October. In October of last year it was 7.1 per cent, and in May and June of this year it was the lowest since the recession—4.9.

Employment, which normally rises at this time of year, rose by 484,000 last month despite the strike. The department said that all of the increase occurred among women, reflecting normal retail job expansion and the opening of school (more women teaching and more mothers free to take jobs).

The number of workers on payrolls in mid-October, not including farm, domestic or self employment, declined by 87,000 to 52,573,000. The number of workers on factory payrolls alone declined by 207,000, but this was partially offset by increased employment in the selling trades and in schools. The mactory work cut-back, to 15,168,000, stemmed from normal post-harvest reductions in the food industry and from the steel strike.

Marriage Has No Part in After-Life

QUESTION: In the after-life, will a man and woman who have been married remain married? When a person dies, will he remain the same age throughout eternity?—J. B.

ANSWER: The marriage contract terminates at death. "Until death do us part" is the clause we repeat when we wed. Legally, and in the sight of God, all marriages are dissolved when one of the partners enters eternity.

The Sadducees asked Jesus this same question, and he said, "The children of this world marry and are given in marriage; but they which shall be accounted worthy to obtain that world and the resurrection from the dead neither marry, nor are given in marriage." (Luke 20:34-35.)

Yet I am certain that in heaven everything will be there needful for our complete happiness. I am equally certain that married couples will know and love each other in the after-life—though the relationship will be somewhat different.

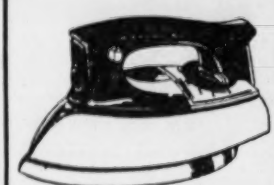

As to remaining the same age throughout eternity, heaven has no clocks nor calendars, and "time will be no more." The thing with which we should be most concerned is preparing for eternity, and though we may find the answer to every mystery, but fail to prepare to meet God, we will be in hopeless straits in the world to come.

FADE THEM OUT
*Weathered brown spots on the surface of your hands and face tell the world you're getting old—perhaps before you really are. Fade them away with new ESOTERICA, that medicated cream that breaks up masses of pigment on the skin, makes hands look white and young again. Equally effective on the face, neck and arms. Not a cover-up. Acts in the skin—not on it. Fragrant, greaseless base for softening, lubricating skin as it clears up those blemishes. At leading drug and toiletry counters $2 plus tax. If you have these age-revealing brown spots, blotches, or if you want clearer, lighter skin, use ESOTERICA. At all Drug Stores.

RETIRING PRELATE
Archbishop O'Hara

Archbishop O'Hara Resigns

SAVANNAH (AP) — Archbishop Gerald P. O'Hara has resigned as bishop of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Savannah and Auxiliary Bishop Thomas J. McDonough was named Wednesday as administrator.

Archbishop O'Hara, the Vatican's Apostolic Delegate to Great Britain, asked Pope John XXIII to relieve him of his diocesan duties because of the difficulty in serving both capacities. The Pope acceded and named him Archbishop of Pessinonte, an historic but now extinct jurisdiction in the part of Asia Minor that is now Turkey.

Bishop McDonough was transferred to Savannah from St. Augustine, Fla., in February, 1957. He was selected administrator by the consultors of the diocese with a secret ballot at the Catholic Chancery Building, diocesan headquarters.

He will administer the diocese until a new bishop is named.

O'Hara, 64-year-old native of Green Ridge, Pa., near Scranton, has been bishop since 1935. He was appointed Nuncio to Romania in 1946, Papal Nuncio to Ireland in 1951 and Apostolic Delegate to Great Britain in 1954.

Legislators Hear Fulton Public Today

Fulton County's state senator and three representatives will hear the public's request for new legislation in a full-day hearing Thursday.

The delegation will meet from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the chambers of the county commissioners in the Fulton Administration Building on Central avenue.

Fulton's senator is Charlie Brown and its representatives Wilson Brooks, Ralph McClelland and M. M. (Muggsy) Smith.

Subjects likely to be considered include public schools, state fiscal aid to municipalities, neighborhood registration and special use permits.

Mamie, Guests Celebrate Her 63rd Birthday

WASHINGTON (AP) Mamie Eisenhower celebrated her birthday with her sister and a dozen friends at a theater matinee Wednesday. Her daughter-in-law, Barbara Eisenhower, wife of Maj. John Eisenhower, was in the party.

The First Lady, who will be 63 on Saturday, saw "A Loss of Roses," a new play by William Inge.

Chic in a royal blue wool dress, Mrs. Eisenhower sat on the aisle. The members of her party occupied the rest of one row in the National Theater.

They came to the theater after a luncheon for Mrs. Eisenhower and a dozen of her friends at the Sulgrave Club given by her sister, Mrs. George Gordon Moore.

Carl Sanders Talks to Lions Club Tomorrow

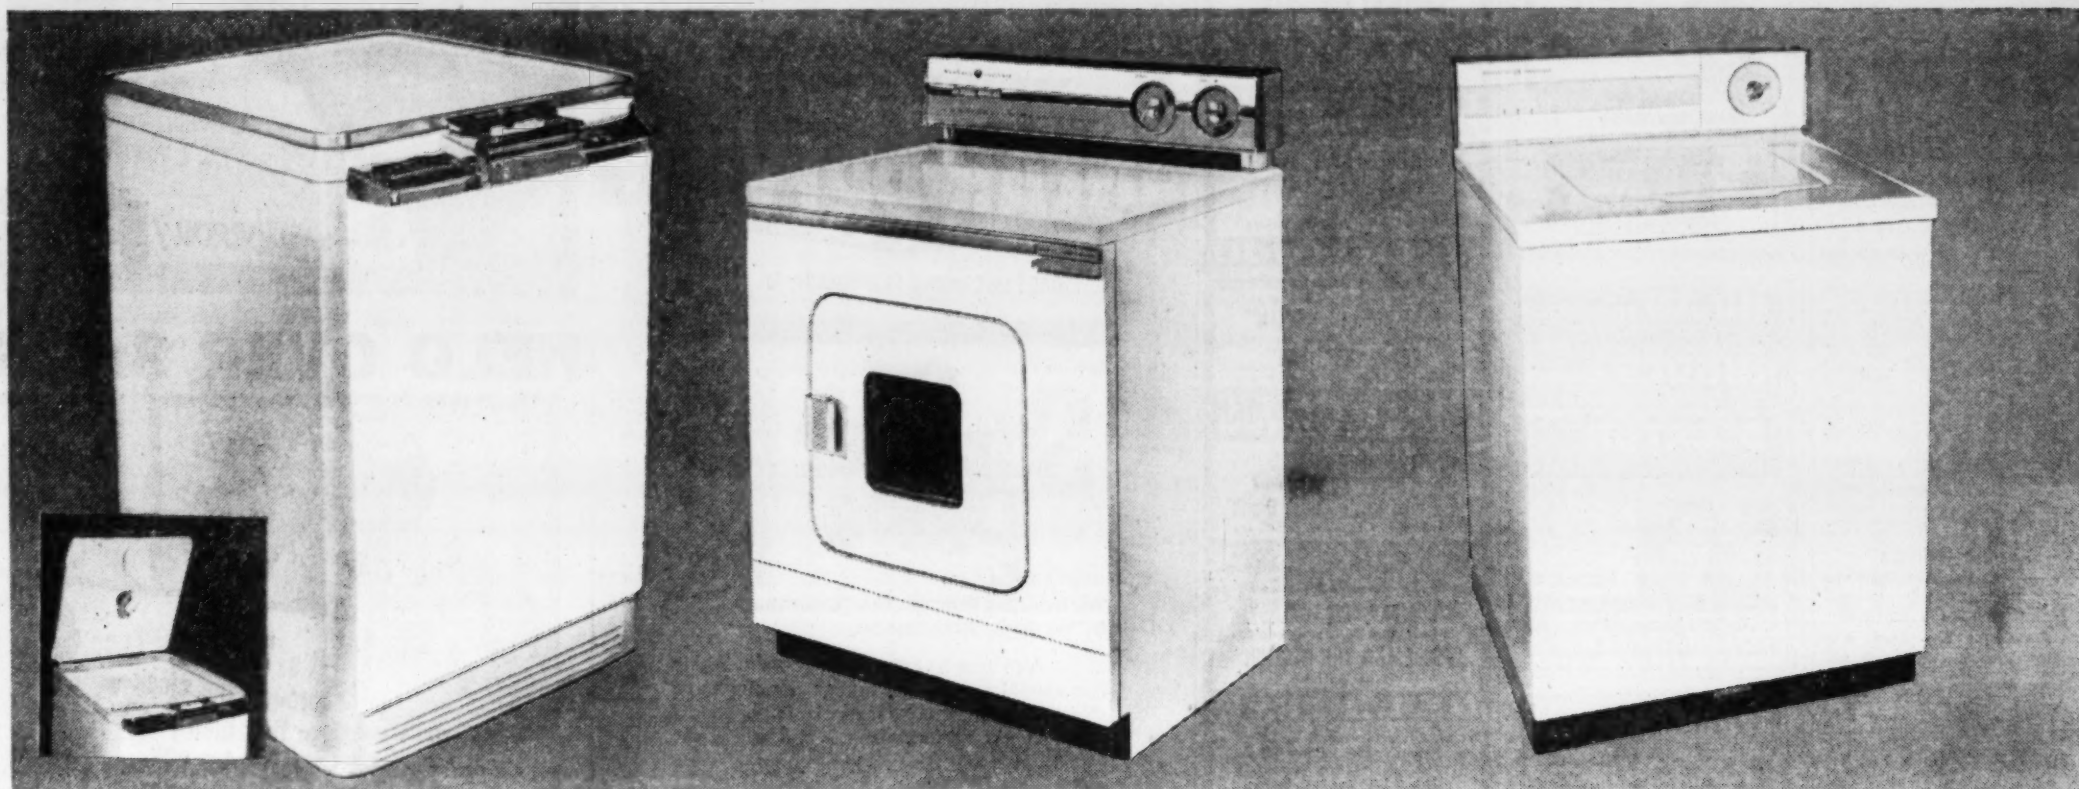

State Senate President Pro Tem Carl E. Sanders of Augusta will be guest speaker at the Atlanta Lions Club luncheon Friday.

Sanders is considered a leading contender for the 1962 lieutenant governor's race. He is serving his second consecutive term in the Senate and was Gov. Vandiver's floor leader during the 1959 session.

The Lions luncheon will start at 12:15 p.m. at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

Cranberries Are Replaced In Thanksgiving Line-Up

By BARBARA SOMERVILLE

Constitution Food Editor

The electrifying news of the possible dangers inherent in eating cranberries has set horror-stricken homemakers to thumbing frantically through their dough-stained cookbooks and galvanized food editors into a desperate search for a cranberry stand-in for Thanksgiving dinners.

My mother always accompanied her turkey with a cranberry ice. So did her mother. I followed along in the tradition. I like it—I don't want to give it up. So I looked for a substitute. I hope I have found it.

CURRENT ICE

Boil together 2 cups water and 1/2 cup sugar for five minutes. Add 1 cup currant juice. Cool. Pour mixture into a refrigerator tray and freeze without stirring until firm. When ready to use, stir or beat slightly and serve with the main course in individual chilled sherbet glasses.

This recipe does not state the number of servings it makes, but I don't imagine you could squeeze more than about 4 servings out of it.

If I can't buy currant juice I'll probably melt down currant jelly for the recipe and taste test for the amount of sugar needed.

WATERMELON GELATIN

I have another idea—if you want something quick and easy. Why not set the new watermelon-flavored gelatin to gel in a large shallow pan—then cut it into rounds with a biscuit cutter? It would look very much like cranberry sauce and I believe its wonderful fresh, ripe watermelon flavor would complement turkey or chicken.

Or you might use canned raspberry-applesauce for tartness and color.

If you don't mind a green sauce you might want to try this elegant orange-mint sauce which has very interesting flavor accents.

MINT SAUCE, SAUTERNE

1/2 cup light or dark raisins
1 cup water
2 chicken bouillon cubes
1/2 cup California Sauterne (or other white dinner wine)
1 tbs. coarsely grated orange peel
1/2 cup fresh orange juice
Dash powdered thyme
Dash powdered marjoram
1 tbs. cornstarch
1 tbs. cold water
3 drops mint extract

Rinse and drain raisins. Add water, bouillon cubes, Sauterne, orange peel and juice, thyme and marjoram. Simmer 5 minutes. Stir in cornstarch moistened in 1 tablespoon cold water, and cook and stir until clear and slightly thickened. Stir in mint and serve over hot sliced roast lamb, turkey, chicken, roast duck or goose.

WINE JELLY

Wine jelly is a tradition even older than cranberries. You can buy it ready-prepared, or make your own. The easiest way is to combine your favorite red wine with gelatin, fruit juice and sugar to taste, and mold.

Here's a tested recipe for you: Put two cups of wine—a ruby port or rose is good—in the top of a double boiler over boiling water. Add three cups of sugar. Heat and stir two minutes. Remove from heat, stir in a half bottle of pectin, pour into sterilized glasses and seal.

FESTIVE CHUTNEY

(This is a tangy, spicy relish with a rich color)
1/2 cup light or dark raisins
2 cups chopped peeled apples
1 cup California Rose wine (or other white wine)
1/2 cup wine vinegar
1 tsp. cinnamon
1/4 tsp. cayenne pepper
2 tbs. chopped candied ginger
OR
1/2 tsp. powdered ginger
2 tbs. instant minced onion

1 cup brown sugar (packed)
1/2 tsp. salt
1 (13 1/2 oz.) can frozen pineapple chunks
1 cup dried figs, cut in strips
1 cup whole pitted fresh dates
1 (4-oz.) bottle maraschino cherries and syrup

Rinse and drain raisins; combine with apples, wine, vinegar, cinnamon, cayenne, ginger, onion, sugar and salt. Bring to boil, lower heat and simmer about 40 minutes. Add remaining ingredients and simmer 15 or 20 minutes longer. Let stand overnight before serving. Makes about 5 cups.

This would make a delightful gift from your kitchen for special friends. It is delicious to serve with roast chicken, turkey, duck or ham.

BORROWED IDEAS

Nancy Carter, director of home economics, Colonial Stores, Inc., gave me these suggestions as alternates for cranberries:

Applesauce
Apple Relish
Waldorf Salad
Apple and Orange Combination Salads
Fresh orange slices
Spiced fruits such as peaches, pears or crabapples.

SEND UP YOUR IDEAS

You perhaps have already decided what you will serve with your turkey until the cranberry situation has been clarified for us. If you have suggestions you would like to share with the rest of us, please send them for our reader column, FROM GEORGIA KITCHENS.

In the meantime, let's not banish the little cranberry until we have a chance to hear all the evidence.

CARNIVAL CAPERS—Viewing what may have rivaled the "Greatest Show on Earth," Mistress of Ceremonies Linda Williams looks in on the variety of activities that took place this week. (Linda is also known as Miss Emory University.) The object of this fun fest was the United Appeal. And in order to extract dollars from everyone else on campuses and possibly cop the campus competitions for the most money raised for the drive for the third straight year, the girls of Alpha Delta Pi Sorority at Emory came up with some unique versions of the ordinary carnival contests. For example, Pitt Pittard got a lot more pleasure out of tossing garters at the shapely legs of Henrietta Hill than he would have from throwing rings at milk bottles. And even Vangie Spann, busy raking in money for this worthy cause, enjoys watching Pitt try his skill. And center photo, Mary Murrell praises Jimmy Sheats for his direct hit on the nose of one prof—unnamed but recognized. For the less athletic customers, there was something to lure their dimes and quarters, too. And the "Singing Cowgirls," in lower photo, Mary Blake (L) and Lucie Thrasher compete with the Pied Piper at charming their customers.

Annie Lou Hardy Atlanta Girl To Unveil Portrait of Dr. Daniel

When a portrait of the late Dr. Roland B. Daniel of Columbus is unveiled in the school bearing his name today in Columbus, nine-year-old Margaret Anderson of Atlanta will do the unveiling.

Margaret, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Anderson Jr., was chosen for the honor because she is the eldest of Dr. Daniel's great-grandchildren. The unveiling program will take place at 7:30 this evening, and will assemble state dignitaries as well as educational leaders of Georgia.

Atlanta members of Dr. Daniel's family going to Columbus for the occasion are his daughter, Mrs. Maurice Loridans, and Mr. Loridans; his niece, Mrs. Norman W. Gibson, and Mr. Gibson; his grandson, Dr. Thomas E. Anderson Jr.; Mrs. Anderson, Thomas Jr. and Frances Anderson; and L. P. Kilpatrick, father of Mrs. Anderson.

MRS. WALTER C. STURDIVANT and Mr. and Mrs. William H. Sibley will land in Los Angeles on Monday on the last lap of a globe-circling trip by plane which began on Labor Day. Mrs. Sturdivant will fly straight to Atlanta, but the Sibleys will stop at Twin Falls, Idaho, to visit Mrs. Sibley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Asher B. Wilson, arriving here on Nov. 23.

Mrs. Sturdivant met her son, Lt. Walter Sturdivant Jr., who is in Japan for a two-year tour of duty, and spent a week with him in Tokyo.

NEIL CONRAD and Lawrence Mason will be hosts at a cocktail party tomorrow in honor of Claire Gardner and her fiancé, George Sherrill Jr. The affair takes place at the Knollwood drive home of Mr. Conrad's mother, Mrs. Donald Beard, and Dr. Beard.

Another weekend party planned for the bride couple is that at which the Frank Kelleys and the William C. Rawsons will be hosts at the cocktail hour on Saturday. Their guests will gather at the Rawson home on Broadland road.

Miss Gardner and Mr. Sherrill will be married at 5 o'clock on Saturday, Dec. 12, in the Mikell Chapel of St. Philip's Cathedral, with a reception following at the Driving Club, with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Emerson Gardner, as hosts.

FOOTBALL FANS going to Birmingham for the Tech-Alabama game this weekend are Mr. and Mrs. William C. Appleby and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Martin Jr. who will fly over on Saturday. The Applebys will spend the weekend with Dr. and Mrs. Prince de Bardelaben, and the Martins will be guests of Dr. and Mrs. Sam Upchurch.

ATLANTANS LEAVING TODAY for Birmingham to spend the weekend with friends and attend the football game are Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Taulman. As soon as they return, they plan to leave for Redington Beach, Fla., to open their winter home for the season.

MRS. CHARLES L. LIPHAM, wife of the new ROTC commandant at Georgia Tech, was honor guest yesterday when Mrs. George C. Griffin entertained at tea at her home on Longwood drive. Mrs. Griffin is the wife of the Tech dean of students.

THE ARRIVAL TODAY of Mrs. C. C. Rand of Charleston, W. Va., will be the signal for much informal entertaining in her honor. She will be the guest for several weeks of her sister-in-law, Mrs. W. Eustace Tompkins of Sheryl Place.

MR. AND MRS. W. R. BOMAR and Mr. and Mrs. E. E. McKeller will be joined this weekend by the J. P. Stantons of Knoxville for a trip to Birmingham and the Tech-Alabama game. They will be guests in the box at the game of Dr. Frank Rose, president of the University of Alabama, who will also have as his guests Capt. and Mrs. E. C. Jones and Capt. and Mrs. Rufus West of Eglin Air Force Base, Fla.

Lady Diplomat Moves Up 'The Ladder of Success'

By YOLANDE GWIN

The first woman to hold a key post in Atlanta's diplomatic colony is taking another step up the ladder of success this week.

Miss Hava Bitan (she calls herself Eva in English) who has been chancellor of the Consulate of Israel here since 1956, is being transferred to New York, where she will be director of the Speakers Bureau of Israel's Office of Information. This post, incidentally, is a promotion for her as well as a step nearer her dreamed-of goal as a vice consul.

"I hate to leave Atlanta, where I have enjoyed not only her people, but everything about the city. It has been a pleasant stay and is my first post in the Southeastern section of the United States. I, too, can remember some school days here, too, for I got my B.A. degree in political science at Oglethorpe University, and did graduate work at Emory."

A BEEHIVE

Miss Bitan's apartment at the Howell House has been a beehive of activity since her arrival here for she has entertained at numerous social affairs ("I prefer small informal afternoon parties," she says) for her Atlanta friends as well as for many visitors who just "drop by."

"Traveling is really my hobby," she confessed as she got her things packed, "and since the consulate here covers nine states I have had an opportunity to see much of the Southland."

Tall, slender and brunette, Miss Bitan will be sorely missed by a cross-section of Atlantans. She has lectured to many groups representing many different facets of Atlanta life. She speaks five languages, Hebrew, German, French, English and Arabic.

EARLY THIRTIES

Coming here from the Foreign Ministry in Jerusalem, Miss Bitan's educational background probably is responsible for the position she now holds and others to come. In the early 30s her family realized what was happening in their native Germany and left the country. They lived in Czechoslovakia and Switzerland before going to Palestine in 1935.

Miss Eva Bitan

During the last three weeks the social life has overshadowed the professional life of this young woman diplomat. No deb nor bride-elect has been wined and dined like Miss Bitan since the news of her transfer leaked out. It's been official for about a week or so, but there has been a minimum of two parties—luncheon and dinners—and sometimes three—crowded into her busy schedule. Hosts have not only been leaders in the city's foreign circles, but the many Atlantans who claim her as their friend.

For Once in My Life I Had No Defense

People don't like for you not to be at the other end of a telephone wire. They suspect that if you're not there saying "Hello" when they call you up that you're up to no good.

"You weren't IN!" they say plaintively. "I called and you weren't IN!"

You may be laboring at the bottom of a sewer or cahooting around the sky on some legitimate and suitably difficult workaday errand. You may even be sitting in on a dull, talky meeting. But the inference is that you're dopping off on your employer's time—maybe taking a nap in the ladies' room or skylarking around avoiding work.

It's almost impossible to take a nap in the ladies' room at our shop. For a long time there were so many ladies in a Delicate Condition to beat you to the couch that now anybody who is caught resting there is target of mirthful comment by all comers. And even if you enjoy the joke, it's not napping.

So I went skylarking. I picked up my coat, shut my eyes to the mess on my desk, said something vague and non-committal to my roommate, Mr. Harold Martin, and went out into the sweet, cool November afternoon. I thought I might go to the library. I toyed with the idea of walking down Decatur street to the new police station. There was a traffic policeman I had a message for on Marietta street, a department store friend I might have a cup of coffee with.

Instead, I wandered aimlessly around, admiring the soft, smoky sunlight on the buildings, sniffing the cool, sharp air, listening to the brisk, pushy sounds of traffic working itself up to that 5 o'clock pitch. My excuse was going to be that I had to get out of the office and think about Christmas for the upcoming special Empty Stocking Fund edition but in spite of the best, beforehand efforts of neighboring stores, I didn't think much about Christmas.

They can't push me with their tinsel and glass ornaments in the windows. I know November when I see it and I'm not going to panic... not yet. Let merchants and children work themselves up over Christmas. I'm going to savor this season before plunging headlong into the next one.

And I recommend a bit of aimless wandering on a November afternoon. The sun lingers on the western sky, staining it a lovely church-window color. Flower vendors fill dingy old doorways with the profligate gold and scarlet of chrysanthemums and winter pinks. Grocers' signs invite you to try pigs' ears, oxtails, beef kidneys and tripe—all at unbelievably low prices. Something new and autumnal has been added to the fruit displays—great mounds of grapes that are so purple as to seem a frosted black.

Seed stores have roses to plant and for some inexplicable reason big glass jars of peppermint sticks—the kind you buy for a penny a piece in country stores. I stood a moment before such a display, thinking about the soft, crumbly peppermint, half tempted to dig up the requisite $1.98 for the whole jar and walk down Broad street eating it.

Paint and wallpaper sales diverted me. For a little while I dallied with launching a fall housecleaning, house-fixing upheaval and getting everything shining and shipshape for Thanksgiving. But then I saw a sewing machine display and I switched dreams midstream. Maybe I would stitch up a lot of darling, economical pretties for Christmas.

It was as close as I came to thinking about Christmas—and it passed. I bought a bunch of chrysanthemums instead and walked back to the office, happily inhaling their pungent, fall-here fragrance. The bank carillon began playing its 5 o'clock hymns and doors opened up spilling out leggy young secretaries and myopic young clerks and married women workers, carefully carrying bought-at-lunch-time bakery cakes home to supper.

I bucked traffic all the way back and when I reached my desk the phone was ringing.

"You're never IN!" a friend began accusingly.

ENGAGEMENT TOLD

Linda Marlene Hattaway, daughter of Mrs. Wesley R. Causey of Palmetto and the late Luther D. Hattaway, will be married on Nov. 21 to Ray Quillian Carroll, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Carroll of College Park. The ceremony will take place at Friendship Baptist Church, with the Rev. C. J. Mowell officiating. Both Miss Hattaway and her fiancé are graduates of Campbell High School. She is employed by the Bank of College Park, and Mr. Carroll is associated with the Atlas Sewing Centers, Atlanta.

Not Music Lovers

PARIS (WNS)—June Richmond, the American singer, has been besieged with fan letters and phone calls from Frenchwomen since the release of her new record, "Coubidou." "June are not music lovers," June admitted. "They want to know the name of the lipstick I'm wearing in the color picture on the record envelope."

Learn Art of Fainting, Baron Advises

VENICE (WNS) — Women should revive the art of fainting as a sure-fire accessory to romance, declared Baron Rudolf von Retter.

"The most popular woman I know makes it a practice to faint at least once a week," he said in an interview here.

"Nothing makes a man feel stronger than to find a weak, helpless female in his arms." A woman looks prettier when unconscious, he added.

"Unfortunately, modern man is not trained to adapt himself to the fainting woman," complained the baron. "Most men are either completely helpless or resort to strenuous first-aid remedies that are far from romantic.

"The girl must time her recovery to preclude this second stage. When a man becomes medical, romance has flown out the window."

Fainting at the proper moment ends lovers' quarrels, avoids difficult situations and centers sympathetic attention on oneself, he said. "To faint with delicate grace is an art," insisted the octogenarian. "Your grandmother was a greater artist at love and femininity than you have ever imagined."

Golden Age Club To Celebrate Anniversary With Open House

The fifth anniversary of the Golden Age Clubhouse will be celebrated Wednesday, Nov. 18, at 2 p.m. with an open house.

The only day center for senior citizens, the club was originally sponsored by the Atlanta section of the National Council of Jewish Women. Today with a membership of more than 250 the club is cosponsored by the United Churchwomen, also. Volunteers of the American Association of University Women help in the staffing of the recreation and the employment referral service.

Exhibits of the club's projects will be displayed. It is located on Eleventh street.

The Possessors of Good Manners Often Receive Financial Rewards

By YOLANDE GWIN

The cash value of pleasing manners does not necessarily mean that the "lady" who cheats at bridge or canasta can gloss over the fact with a charming and ingenuous manner.

Nor does it imply that the "gentleman" who has deliberately secured the hand of an heiress by a display of his social graces, has justified his pleasing personality by using it to that end.

And yet, good manners, aside from any other value they possess, often have a legitimate cash value for their possessors. The possessor of good manners, and good breeding, makes his mark in the business world as well as in the social world.

OTHER QUALITIES

As a cash asset, manners are the last thing to be despised. For genuine good manners are, as a general rule, the reflex of the other qualities which good breeding supposes: honor, self-reliance and loyalty. Everywhere in the world of affairs we find that good manners pay an actual cash return.

The well-bred, socially perfect mannered and poised private woman secretary of a big businessman, can, by her use as well as knowledge of poise, tact and the social graces, be worth her weight in gold to her employer. Women of means and who are sure of themselves think nothing of inviting friends less endowed by fortune in a financial way but whose charming manners and personality have endeared them, to be their guests for parties, on trips and even to accompany them on cruises.

CULTIVATE MANNERS

It must be remembered, however, that the last thing that one should do, of course, is to cultivate good manners as a matter of monetary speculation. When there is a cash reward for good manners in some way or another, it should come as a tribute and as a distinction. It must never be considered or regarded as interest on an investment. It should be gratifying to realize that in many cases good breeding, that heritage of good society which does so much to lend grace and charm to life, is not merely its own reward, but that it is recognized in a manner which even those who look down upon society's social arts must respect.

Career Girl

Women in Business World Aren't Allowed Problems

By JUNE WILSON

"I know you've got problems trying to support and rear three children alone and I don't know how in blazes you do it and keep an even disposition; but whatever your problems are, they don't belong in the office."

This gentleman is for real and he was speaking to his secretary. No, it wasn't her first day on the job. It was at a chance lunch after her sixth month with the company. And the occasion? He had just recounted his problems with his teen-age son who seemed to be "going to the dogs."

Men have fascinated women since Eve wheedled Adam into tasting the apple, but to the Career Girl who breaks bread with them . . . and now and then her back . . . some have all the charm of a coiled rattlesnake.

NOT PERMITTED

The quote is typical of the thinking of many businessmen. Women in the business world are seldom "permitted" to have problems, yet the lady regularly trot theirs down to the office in the form of: "Didn't sleep a wink . . . the baby howled all night with colic." Or, "I'm short with you but I can't help it . . . I'm sick."

More often, it is a simple malady called a hangover. With his glow gone, the girl in the office shares the cost of the afterglow.

But let a working girl arrive at the office and mention the baby had her up all night. She is "dragging her personal problems into the office." If anyone should note that she doesn't feel well . . . chances are she won't mention it . . . it is HIS turn to remind her: "Go on home. Nobody around here is indispensable and besides, sick people depress me." As for this unfaithful glow that doesn't last, the Career Girl might as well just skip with the company funds as to totter into the office and announce, "I'm hung over." Either way literal and absolute earthquake is immediate.

Two things the Career Girl is heirless to like a two-headed albatross around her neck: one is the double standard . . . "Me Tarzan . . . you Jane," and the other is that regardless of all she really does, she is credited only for the stereotyped duties listed in her clamy, unimaginative little job classification.

ANOTHER WAY

The thing about women, though, is that they are resourceful. They will always find another way, even if it is underground. The secretary who was admonished not to bring her problems to the office simply set about quietly and single-mindedly to make herself as nearly indispensable as possible. And she made it. Came the day when, returning from a funeral, she was greeted by the Anointed Ruler with, "Why in blazes did you have to stay forever? Every time you walk out of here the whole office goes to hell in a million pieces!"

To the men this may sound like small compensation, but that is because they are men. The Career Girl, even if she can't sew a stitch, knows that to weave cloth one starts with threads. When she begins with the small threads of indispensability, she can wind up weaving a carpet in an office of her own . . . and with windows yet!

Secretary: Don't Let A Machine Replace You

MUNICH — (WNS) — Because office machines are threatening to displace stenographers and secretaries, Hans Schiller, head of a business school here, is devising ways to keep them indispensable.

"The personal element will be stressed," he said. "A machine will never be able to give comfort and solace to an overworked businessman who has just lost an important account."

"Secretaries must become proficient in psychology. They must know when to be silent and when to speak, and they must have a cup of coffee waiting at the right moment."

The role of a personal secretary is tender because she must never infringe upon the position of her boss' wife, he said. "We are in favor of some form of regular meetings between wives and secretaries to eliminate this danger."

Herr Schiller himself has no problem. His wife has been his secretary for 12 years—two years longer than she has been his wife.

Webb School To Hold Book Fair

The Guy Webb School in Sandy Springs will hold a Book Fair on Thursday and Friday, Nov. 12-13.

This Book Fair is to promote interest in reading, to build home libraries and to benefit the school library.

During the day illustrators Alex Bealer, William Moyers, Tom Hill, Jack Elrod and Ralph Ricketts will tour classrooms, giving demonstrations of their work.

This is the second Book Fair which the PTA has conducted. The first sold over $2,000 worth of books with the school's percentage being over $250. This money was used exclusively for the school library. In addition to this, over 250 books were donated to the library.

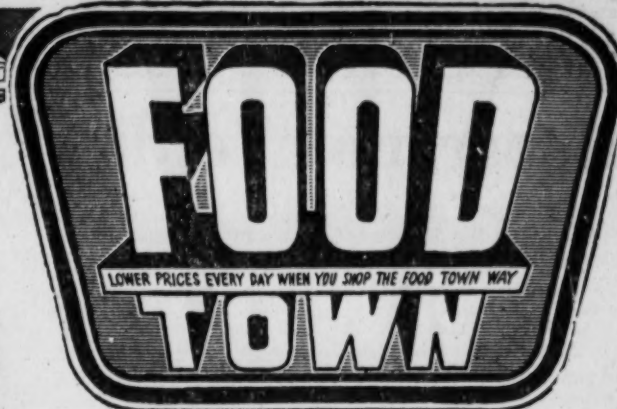

The school will be open to the public on Thursday from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. and on Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. for the sale of books.

Rockefeller Praises Integration Verdict

NEW YORK (AP)—Republican Gov. Rockefeller Wednesday called the Supreme Court school integration decision a "great landmark of our times."

He offered his endorsement of the decision in a speech prepared for the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

STATES FEELINGS

Shortly before flying out to the West Coast, Rockefeller told the dinner gathering: "Let me state plainly and simply my own feelings on that decision: I regard it as a necessary and an historic affirmation and clarification of the essential liberties and the abiding principles by which America must live."

"This decision has accelerated a social evolution in broad areas of our land. In some places this change has been resisted — and even with violence. The important point, however, is not that the decision has been resisted so much as the fact that the overwhelming body of American opinion is behind the decision."

SEES REVERSAL

"Many parts of our country, in fact, have undergone a marked reversal of local customs and mores in the wake of this decision and have done so with commendable promptness. So while we deplore and struggle against those who still seek to undermine the law of our land, we applaud the great numbers of Americans who accepted it in loyalty and good grace."

On the subject of politics, Rockefeller declared that if Sen. Kennedy got the Democratic nomination for President it would not be because of, or in spite of, his religion but "because he is an attractive, popular and useful public servant."

The governor said he saw the possibility that a Roman Catholic might be nominated as a "landmark of a growing maturity" in the American public.

OUTLINES VIEWS

Rockefeller's speech was the latest in a series in which he has been outlining his views on national issues, a prelude, it is generally accepted, to his 1960 campaign for the GOP presidential nomination.

Also seen as a furtherance of this ambition was his West Coast foray into the home grounds of Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Rockefeller's chief rival in any bid for the nomination.

Rockefeller has scheduled 35 appearances during a four-day visit to California, Oregon, Washington and Idaho, Nixon's home state is California.

Water's Bad Taste Assailed in DeKalb

By ALAN GILLON

A group of DeKalb County citizens has protested fluoride additives in the county water, and charged that "double amounts" of chlorine have been added to water in their area.

Some 15 persons appeared at the DeKalb County commission meeting Tuesday to protest the rusty water in the East Atlanta area, which they said tastes like "keresene."

The citizens said water tests made for them showed a higher amount of chlorine—a water-purification chemical—in water in the area than in other areas of the city.

Harry Hart, acting as spokesman for the group, told the commission that it was necessary to allow water in the area to run "half a day" to clear it of rust and bitter chemicals which make it "unfit to drink."

Joseph Brown, Ex-Atlantan, Dies in Spain

Joseph Andrew Brown, a former Atlanta real estate man and a native of Franklin County, died Monday at Sipses, near Barcelona, Spain, relatives here said Wednesday.

Funeral services for Mr. Brown were held Tuesday at Barcelona. Born at Ft. Lamar in Franklin County, Mr. Brown was reared at Royston and Athens.

During World War I, he married Germaine Grenier, of Chambers, France. After the war they lived in Atlanta, where Mrs. Brown helped organize the Alliance Francaise.

During and after World War II Mr. Brown worked on government housing projects in Atlanta and in Paris and Orleans, France, and Frankfurt, Germany. Since his retirement several years ago they had been living in Spain.

Besides his wife, other survivors include a daughter, Mrs. William Kildare, Rye, N.Y.; a son, Gerald Brown, Sipes; three brothers, Worth T. Brown, Athens; S. R. Brown, Atlanta, and Asbury M. Brown, and four sisters, Mrs. L. M. Leather, Athens; Mrs. E. D. Cartledge, of Florida; Mrs. C. B. Almond, Winder, and Mrs. W. H. Ussery, Augusta.

T. N. Hutchinson Stricken, Dies On Street Here

A retired businessman suffered a fatal heart attack Wednesday in downtown Atlanta.

Tyre Nicholas Hutchinson, 80, was stricken at 12:10 p.m. at Pryor street and Edgewood avenue, police said. He was pronounced dead by a Grady Hospital physician.

Mr. Hutchinson, who retired several years ago as a cotton broker, lived at 489 Pinetree Dr., Northeast.

He was a member of the Peachtree Road Presbyterian Church and a former member of the Capital City Club. He was a member of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange. His name is one of the few engraved on a bronze plaque in honor of more than 50 years' membership.

Born at Greenville, he was a graduate of Gordon Military College at Barnesville.

Survivors include his wife, the former Claude McGinty, and two brothers, L. N. Hutchinson, Decatur, and W. A. Hutchinson, Greenville.

Funeral plans will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

QUEEN OF UNION—BLAIRSVILLE—Frances Collins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Collins, will be crowned Union County High School Homecoming Queen at ceremonies Friday night. Frances, 16, plans to attend Young Harris College after graduation.

DeKalb's Pupil Fund Helps Itself

DeKalb County school funds have earned $171,837.39 in interest over the past three years, School Supt. Jim Cherry said Wednesday.

Cherry said the funds earned the interest from short-term United States Government securities in the period from July 1, 1957, to June 30, 1959.

According to Cherry, the funds earned enough interest in the last fiscal year, July 1, 1958, to June 30, 1959, to build two and a half modern classrooms. The interest, $34,078.07, included $12,667.31 in interest on general funds investments, $14,273.90 in bond investment account interest, and $7,136.86 on capital outlay investments.

Idle funds from the $11,000,000 school bond program of 1956 has earned interest of $104,203.20 in the past three years, Cherry said.

He pointed out that the system receives most of its year's operation funds during a two-month period and immediately invests funds not needed, as well as bond funds when bonds are sold. The investments are planned to mature to provide funds as needed.

While it is true that the school system pays more interest on the bonds than is earned, Cherry said, the investment of the funds helps make the interest less of a strain on the system and on the taxpayer.

Cherry noted that there has been recent publicity given the failure of the State of Georgia to invest idle funds and let them earn interest while they are not needed. This is also the case with a number of school systems in the state, he said.

"The DeKalb School System will continue its policy of investing... because it is good business," Cherry said.

Mrs. Register Dies; Wife of State Official

Mrs. Holt E. Register, 46, former school teacher and wife of a State Labor Dept. official, died Wednesday in a private hospital after an illness of three months. She was the former Sara Cornelia Souther of Macon.

After graduation from the University of Georgia, Mrs. Register taught home economics. Her last teaching assignment was for three years at Dublin (Ga.) High School.

She moved to Marietta in 1942, and to Atlanta about 10 years ago. Her home was at 1102 Donnelly Ave., SW.

Her husband is manager of the Atlanta employment and claims office of the Georgia Dept. of Labor.

Mrs. Register was a Sunday School teacher at Cascade Baptist Church, where funeral services will be at 11 a.m. Friday. The Rev. Ernest E. Brown will officiate. Burial will be in Westview Cemetery.

Other survivors include a son, Robert Register, and her mother, Mrs. Allie J. Souther, both of Atlanta; a brother, Leon J. Souther, Ocala, Fla., and two sisters, Mrs. J. Byron Davis, Gainesville, and Mrs. Arthur H. Torstrick, Louisville, Ky.

Films' James Stewart Received by Franco

MADRID (UPI)—American film star James Stewart was received Wednesday by Generalissimo Franco at suburban El Prado Palace.

Stewart, who is on a 10-day hunting and tourist trip to Spain, was accompanied by his Spanish host, Prince Alfonso of Hohenlohe.

OUTLAR

The Day in Athens

ATHENS—Around 3 p.m. Wednesday afternoon coach Wallace Butts listened to the umpteenth long-distance request for tickets to the Georgia-Auburn social, hung up the phone, picked up his hat and headed for Ag Hill.

Someone inquired why he was in such a hurry, for the practice bell doesn't sound until 4 p.m. There was plenty of time to change into coaching togs.

"That's right," Butts said. "We don't start practice until 4, but this team usually arrives early. Several of them will be there before 3:30, and Bobby Walden is the first man on the field every day."

Outlar

You seldom find a college football team anxious to get to work before the deadline. And this particular incident partially explains the success of this unheralded band of Bulldogs. Few, if any, Georgia teams have had more desire and ambition.

Two hours before the practice kick-off guard Pat Dye, a bona fide all-America candidate, arrived at coaching headquarters in Stegeman Hall. He had a few minutes of leisure and wanted another look at Auburn films.

Georgia players, of course, have seen Auburn movies all week. Coaches have re-run the films almost as many times as TV stations repeat the same flickers on the late shows. But Dye gives it something extra, even in the projection room.

Auburn movies are highly recommended for all students of guard play, for Zeke Smith has no peer in college football at this post. However, G. W. Clapp was the man Dye wanted to observe. And Dye didn't have to look long to realize that he'll have a busy afternoon entertaining Clapp, advertised as the strongest man on the Auburn team.

"You don't have to tell me that," Dye said. "I know he's a real good football player. I played opposite him in the freshman game three years ago, and we were paired on some plays last year."

An author at Auburn had quoted All-Hemisphere Smith earlier in the week as saying that he was more worried about Pat Dye than the Bulldogs.

Asked if he had read the story, Dye said he had. "I doubt that he said that, though," Dye added, "for we won't be squared off on most plays. I know he's not worried about me, anyhow. On the other hand, I'm not worried about him."

—Roland Is Best Guard Dye's Seen So Far

The War Eagles were whaling Miami in this particular film, and Dye observed that Bobby Hunt was a fine runner and passer; that Smith and Clapp were outstanding guards; that Ken Rice was a great tackle; that Jimmy Pettus was flying on the ground. All the observations were accurate, for Auburn is a terrific football team.

"You know a fellow would have a tough time making this Auburn team at any position," Dye said, sounding very much like a man in the adjacent room. "They're tough, but we're going to beat 'em somehow," he added, sounding very much unlike the man in the adjacent room.

As Dye continued to watch Clapp in general and the War Eagles in particular defeat Miami and Tech, a fellow asked Pat to name the toughest guard he'd faced this far.

"It's kinda hard to answer that question," Dye replied. "I guess Lawrin Giammore of Florida. He's a real good football player. There was some real knocking out there Saturday on both sides of the line."

"The best guard I've seen so far this year," Dye continued, "plays on the right side of our line. His name is Billy Roland. Brother, he'll hit you. He doesn't say much, but he plays a lot. The Florida scout report said, 'Buckle your chin strap when you play in front of this fellow, for he'll knock it off.' That's a good report on Roland."

Dye was promptly asked where he saw the Florida scout report. "Oh, I didn't see it," Pat answered. "We were talking with some of the Florida players after the game, and one of them told us."

—Bulldogs Hope to Spoil Shug's Return

Dye, like everyone else in the Gator Bowl Stadium, thought teammate Charley Britt played his finest game for Georgia. "He was really great," Pat said. "Wonder what Florida thought about Charley? The scout report had said that Florida didn't have to worry too much when Britt was at quarterback."

Britt, of course, moved the Bulldogs to two touchdowns in the first quarter, hurling a 34-yard pass to Bobby Towns for the second TD. No one could recall the last time to cash two scores against the defensive-minded Gators in the first quarter. Britt then ran 100 yards with an intercepted pass in the third period, and the folks in the press box again started thumbing record books.

Since Dye is also a charter member of the early practice club, he switched off the movie projector and headed for Ag Hill and some live action.

Everyone is busily arranging a homecoming reception for Ralph Jordan, the former Georgia coach who'll be bringing his first team to Sanford Stadium.

The Georgia-Auburn game, of course, was shifted from Columbus to Athens this outing on the first lap of a new home-and-home pact. And that's the only reason Jordan hasn't whipped the Bulldogs here. After assuming the reins at Auburn, he lost the first two quarrels with Georgia.

Since that time, however, few teams have beaten Auburn, and Georgia will be attempting to snap a six-game losing skid against the Plainsmen Saturday.

It's been a long time since the Bulldogs had so many chips riding on one roll of the football dice. . . . The SEC championship, a bowl bid and all the trimmings.

That explains why the Classic City hasn't been so excited in many a moon. The biggest pep rally in Georgia history is scheduled Thursday night, workmen are laboring overtime to erect temporary stands to accommodate the overflow crowd of 50,000-plus.

Meanwhile, coach Butts has one eye on the sky and the other on the Bulldogs. The long-range weather odds are even-money if it rains. Despite five straight triumphs on off tracks, Butts doesn't want to tangle with the behemoth War Eagles in the mud.

Rain or shine, the Bulldogs will be ready, and so will the Plainsmen. Even the pollsters must recognize the Bulldogs if they beat Auburn.

Ray Halted By Johnson

CHICAGO, (AP)—Harold Johnson, inactive No. 1 light heavy contender, toyed with Chicago's Sonny Ray through nine rounds and then belted out a 10th round TKO in the Chicago Stadium Wednesday night.

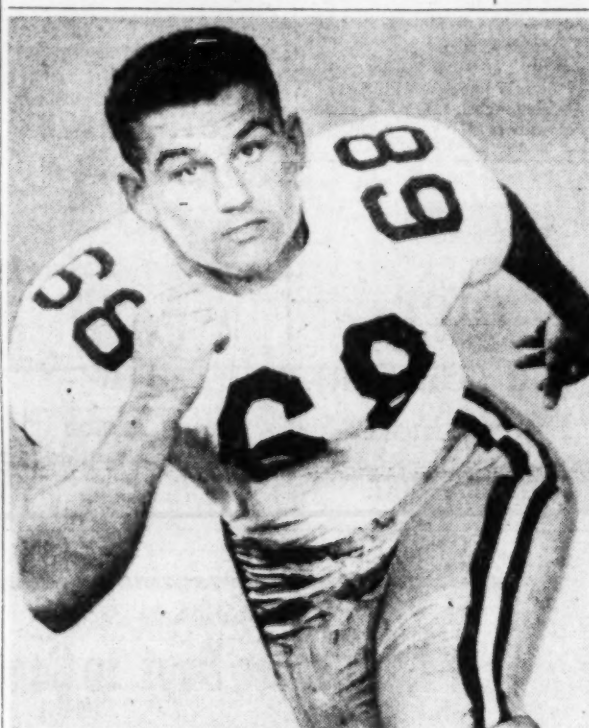

This was only the second fight this year for Philadelphia Johnson, now undefeated in 11 bouts over four years.

Johnson decked Ray for an eight count in the fourth round.

No matter where a person may roam, there is no sweeter success than success at home.

This observation is not original, true, but it is relived every year in every corner of the nation and by every person away from home. Georgia Tech has seven players returning to their home soil for a Saturday performance, and a more determined group you've never seen.

Guard John Neal Reed, a 205-pound senior, perhaps typifies the spirit of the Alabamans on the Jacket varsity.

"We want this one pretty badly," said Reed Wednesday after a crisp Jacket practice session. "You see, for some of us, this is our last shot at Alabama and we want to make up for last year's defeat."

Reed, a square-jawed young man, is not one of the better

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—Bald Eagle of the United States bounced home an easy winner of the Invitational $100,000 Washington, D.C. International Wednesday—a roughly run global classic in which two riders were unseated, and several other jockeys complained of football tactics.

Riders of horses from Venezuela and Australia were spilled, the jockey of one of the two Russian horses came back with his nose bleeding, and Eddie Arcaro of the United States said:

"It was the roughest sonofagun I've ever seen, and I've ridden in a few."

Bald Eagle scampered home 2½ lengths ahead of Midnight Sun, one of two French representatives in the eighth running of the race. A roaring Laurel Park crowd of 31,278, sprinkled with foreign diplomats, government officials and society's 400 sat in on the colorful spectacle.

"When they race like this, I do not want to be killed," said Nikolai Nasibov, who rode Russia's Garnir and finished out of the money. "It is more like a football game."

Pensylvania, a filly representing Venezuela, crossed over to the inner hedge in front of Vogel, the Australian horse, with less than a mile to travel. Vogel ran up on Pensylvania's heels, and both riders went down.

And for the eighth time in the world-famous grass course classic inaugurated in 1952, the favorite went down to defeat.

This time it was Tudor Era, a British-bred horse representing the United States. Tudor Era, who finished first in the 1958 International only to be disqualified, came home third, 4½ lengths behind Midnight Sun, but eight lengths in front of the fourth horse, France's Mi Carina.

The spill came shortly after the field went past the finish line for the first time. Right in front of the clubhouse, and with less than a mile to travel, Tudor Era was on the lead.

Soberdash Fit To Start

May Open Against Auburn;
Walden's Injury Responding

By HORACE THOM
Special to The Constitution

ATHENS—The Georgia Bulldogs may have their captain, Don Soberdash, back in the starting lineup against Auburn here Saturday for the first time since Alabama opener.

"Don is moving much better this week," commented Coach Wallace Butts after sending the SEC-leading Bulldogs through a spirited no-contact workout Wednesday afternoon. "We may start him at fullback Saturday."

The stocky Soberdash, who alternated with Jimmy Orr as Georgia's regular right halfback in 1957 and did overtime duty there in 1958, played 40 minutes at right half in the 17-3 victory over Alabama on Sept. 19. But he injured a knee in the opening minute of play against Vanderbilt in the second game and did not return to action again until the fifth game against Mississippi State, and he hurt the other knee against the Maroons.

Soberdash was back in the lineup briefly against Florida last Saturday, playing fullback. He is considered the best line-backer of the backs and also is a very dependable blocker and inside runner.

Trainer Sam Richwine says that Bobby Walden, junior left half of Cairo, has responded to treatment and should be ready to start Saturday. The versatile Walden suffered a bruised back against Florida. That means that the only change in the Bulldog starting lineup may be Soberdash for Bill Godfrey at fullback.

SCRIMMAGE SCRAPS—The Bulldogs ran through a brisk spirited workout without contact Wednesday on Ag Hill . . . orange colored circulars, stating that the War Eagles would "bury the Bulldogs" mysteriously appeared on the Georgia campus Thursday morning.

AUBURN'S BOBBY HUNT HAS IT WHEN IT COUNTS

By MICKEY LOGUE
Constitution Sports Writer

AUBURN, Ala. — "Like all great athletes we've ever known, Bobby Hunt has the little something extra."

Coach Ralph Jordan went directly to the heart of sophomore Hunt's spectacular successes this season as Auburn's starting quarterback.

"Bobby has that little extra burst of speed that can mean the difference between going all the way and part of the way to a touchdown," Jordan continued Wednesday. "His long strides make him look slow, and this illusion helps him elude tacklers."

"Hunt also is one of the finest boys a football fan, player or coach could ever hope to meet. He is a quiet, unassuming youngster who falls into that category of boys easy to coach."

"Although he is constantly trying to learn and improve himself, this does not effect his poise and confidence on the field. He hasn't been ruffled all year. Certainly, Hunt makes a few mistakes. But he shrugs them off and keeps getting better."

Statistically speaking, Hunt leads the Southeastern Conference in total yardage with 680 and in yards-per-carry with 7.2. His 491 rushing yards are third best in the league, as are his 38 points scored.

Hunt engineered Auburn's vic-

AUBURN'S SOPHOMORE ACE, BOBBY HUNT, POLISHES UP PASSING

SEC's Total Yardage Leader, Tiger Quarterback Warms Up for Bulldogs

—has made touchdowns in five of Auburn's seven games.

He will be a major offensive threat when the Tigers try for their seventh straight victory over Georgia at Athens Saturday.

Hunt was asked his most anxious moment as a rookie quarterback.

"I'm scaredest when I'm not playing," he replied. "I get nervous on the bench. I didn't get to play in the first quarter against Tennessee and that's the scaredest I've been all season."

The 19-year-old Lanett athlete says he has gained five pounds and one-half inch since practice opened in September. That leaves him 6-1½ standing and weighing 175.

What is the biggest difference between college and high school football?

"Speed," Hunt said. "When I got ahead of the tacklers in high school, I often scored. But these college defenders sometimes pass me like I'm standing still."

"I guess the biggest thing I've learned this season is how tough it is to score once you reach the 10-yard line. Just one bad call can ruin a good drive."

Hunt credits halfback Lamar Rawson and fullback Ed Dyer for supplying the blocks that have released him around end so frequently. "And our linemen can't be given enough credit," he emphasized.

"They are the bread and butter of our football team."

"The hardest lick I've gotten here so far was the first day we freshmen went up on the hill to scrimmage the varsity. Jackie Burkett really unbuckled me."

The modest signal caller is a favorite of his teammates as shown by the blocking they provide him.

Hunt admits he had rather run than pass the ball. But when Jordan tested his air arm at Miami, Hunt threw for 169 yards.

"He's a good passer," Jordan said. "We have just played on several wet fields, and faced situations that called for more running."

Hunt has spent a lot of summer afternoons passing with townsman Richard Wood, also a Lanett stickout before joining the Tiger quarterback corps.

Hunt started playing football on a midweek team when he was 10 years old.

He came to Auburn in the footsteps of older brother Jimmy, a basketball player.

Defensive coach Hal Herring says Hunt has a bright future in the Tiger secondary, and his offensive potential appears limitless.

"Hunt's like Lloyd Nix was," Herring added. "He has a knack for winning."

'Players Up, For Game,' Says Jordan

AUBURN, Ala. — "We'll be in our best physical shape of the year, and I think our players will be up for the game."

This was the extent of Auburn coach Ralph Jordan's predictions as the Tigers finished heavy work for Saturday's scrap with Georgia's Southeastern Conference leaders.

Jordan paid special tribute to sophomores who have shouldered a large load, including fullback John McGeever, halfbacks Don Machen, Jackie Spencer and Bo Davis, quarterback Bobby Hunt, tackle Billy Wilson, Dave Woodward and Luddy Goetz, guard Jerry Gullledge, center Wayne Frazier and ends Dave Edwards and Bart Manous.

Auburn has allowed more than one touchdown to only one team in the last 19 SEC games, a record that goes on the line at Athens.

... The Tigers worked on place kicking with Ed Dyer and John Kern connecting with regularity.

... Jordan was pleased with the workout, called it "a good, spirited drill." —LOGUE

RADEMACHER FIGHTS KEENER

COLUMBUS, Ga. (P)—Pete Rademacher will be seeking his fourth straight comeback victory Thursday night when he goes against Buddy Keener of Baltimore here at City Auditorium.

The fight card, featuring 36 rounds of boxing, will get under way promptly at 8:30, with the main event scheduled for about 10 o'clock.

This will be Rademacher's second appearance in the Columbus ring. He started his comeback here early this year with a TKO victory over Tommy Thompson of Washington, D.C.

His victory over Thompson was followed with triumphs in Greenville, S.C. and Miami Beach, Fla.

He was first scheduled to meet Johnny York in Thursday night's main event, but York cancelled out when he suffered an attack of virus and was confined to the hospital.

In facing Keener, Rademacher is meeting a tough, rugged opponent who, according to promoter Tony Scala, has won 13 of 18 pro bouts.

70 HP MERCURYs

SWEEP FIRST EIGHT PLACES IN OPENING PLEASURE BOAT MARATHON FEATURING NEW 1960 MODELS OF ALL MAJOR OUTBOARD MANUFACTURERS!

Kissimmee, Fla. October 18 — The year's largest sanctioned pleasure-boat marathon was run here today, featuring the new 1960 models of all major outboard motor manufacturers. Overall winner of the four-hour marathon was Charles Mersereau of Whittier, California, driving two 70 hp Merc 700's on a twin-hulled Power Cat.

In the Unlimited Class, the first seven places were taken by 140 hp rigs using twin 70 hp Merc 700 engines. Only one 150 hp rig (using twin 75 hp motors) crossed the finish line, 24 miles behind the winner.

In Class Five, single-engine outboards of 70 and 75 horsepower competed against each other. The winner was James Wirth of Omro, Wisconsin with his 70 hp Merc-equipped Raveau. With the exception of the seventh-place 75 hp boat, all finishers drove Mercury 70 hp six-cylinder outboards. Only one of the five 75 hp entries was able to finish. Wirth's single engine rig also finished ahead of the only competitive twin 75 hp rig to finish in the unlimited class, giving Mercury-powered craft the first eight places in overall standings.

The routine job the 70 hp Merc 700's did in winning the marathon, the first against 1960 models of other brands, is proof once again of Mercury's superior performance and dependability. These are the same production family outboard motors which you will want for water skiing, for cruising, for family boating fun.

MERCURY IS THE WORLD'S NO. 1 OUTBOARD!

- Compare the sleek "Prop-Jet" lower unit of one piece "Uni-Cast" construction, the most efficient ever designed, with less drag than other lower units of comparable size. It has huskier gears, bearings, propeller shaft, and a huskier full size propeller with a huskier propeller clutch.
- Note the smooth swept-back leading edge to slide over underwater obstructions. There's no weed catching, log hooking, protruding snout on Mercury's lower unit.
- Ask about the way the engine fires its exhaust into the propeller slip stream through the center of the propeller. Engine exhaust and sound are buried deep and far behind the boat.

- Remember all Mercs have the full sized "Flo-Torq" impact safety clutch which eliminates sheer pins and drive pins.
- Find added protection, too, with Mercury's hydraulic "Dyna-Shock" absorbers and the "Safety-Tilt" switch, both pioneered by Mercury three years ago. Protect your family, your boat, your motor, from underwater hazards.

Bama's Sims Hurts Ankle

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (P)—Alabama's hopes for a victory over Georgia Tech Saturday were dealt a severe blow Wednesday when guard Wayne Sims injured an ankle in practice.

Sims was taken to the University Infirmary for X-rays and will remain overnight for observation. It is not known if he will miss the Tech game in Birmingham.

Bama Backs Tough, Says Tech's Dodd

ognition accorded backs and others in position to make more spectacular plays. But John Neal is worth his weight in defense to coach Bobby Dodd and the Tech team.

The 6-1 native of Albertville, Ala., last week played his greatest game for Georgia Tech when he recovered two fumbles and helped stop the mighty Fighting Irish of Notre Dame. It was a fine warmup for Bama.

"John Neal is a big, strong boy who has been a regular two years," said Dodd, "and he has played some outstanding football."

Interior line coach Whitey Urban seconded the compliment.

"Reed started slowly, but he has come along fast in the last five games," said Urban. "His play has been no surprise to us. We knew he could do it."

The Tech-Alabama football rivalry runs deep in the Reed blood line. A brother, Frank, played freshman football for the Crimson Tide and later served two terms as team trainer. Another brother, Ralph, picked up a master's degree at Tech.

"No, Frank doesn't rib me too much," chuckled Reed in answer to a question. "He understands the situation, and he understands that we are going all out to beat Alabama on Saturday."

No one on the Flats is taking the Tide lightly.

Dodd voiced respect for Bear Bryant's hard-nosed club Wednesday when he described the Crimson backfield as "one of the best in the Southeastern Conference."

He went into particulars.

"Take Marlin Dyess and Billy Richardson. Dyess isn't as big as a minute, yet he can run the 100 in 9.8 and he is one of the SEC's most deceptive ball carriers. He can stop on a dime and change directions. Richardson, at 160, is another who can break up a game for you. Quarterbacks Pat Trammell and Bob Skelton rate with the best.

"These boys are not spectacular because the Alabama offense is geared to four-five-six yards and control football.

"Dyess and Richardson can be compared with the little back we used to have at Tech, Jimmy Thompson. . . little but dangerous. The fact is, we tried to get Richardson and Trammell before they decided to go to Bama.

"Yes, I would say we have a great deal of respect for the Alabama backs. It goes without saying that Bryant has a tough line of scrimmage."

FLAT FACTS: No improvement reported in condition of quarterback Fred Braselton, who missed the Notre Dame game with bruised shoulder, and now it appears halfback Billy Williamson's action status is up in the air because of a hip injury. Williamson may or may not see duty on Saturday. . . . Halfback Kenny Thompson was running Wednesday, but coaches don't expect him back in harness until Georgia week. . . . Alabama won last year's Grant Field battle, 17-8, after Tech mistakes handed the Tide possession on six of the first seven Jacket offensive series. This performance is not expected to be repeated. "I can't remember when a Tech team made that many mistakes," Dodd said Wednesday.

Gator Deal Defends Coach Bob Woodruff

PENSACOLA, Fla. (P)—A University of Florida halfback wrote the Pensacola Journal sports editor Wednesday that he and his teammates feel Bob Woodruff "should and will remain our coach."

The Journal sports editor has defended Woodruff.

The comment by junior halfback Don Deal of Corpus Christi, Tex., was written on the bottom of a questionnaire returned to the sports editor, Al Padgett.

Padgett had sent questionnaires to 30 members of the team asking them to answer questions as to whether Woodruff is doing a good job, whether a coaching change would be good for the Gators, and whether Woodruff has the confidence of the team. Only Deal's had been returned Wednesday night.

Woodruff, who has been rumored on his way out of the coaching job, earlier had telephoned Padgett that he was responsible for the meager response to Padgett's letters.

"I did not tell the players not to return your letter," Woodruff said. "I merely advised them to forget about newspaper polls and publicity and to concentrate on Florida State and Miami."

BULLPUPS' BUTLER MAY BALANCE OFF

Alvin Butler

ALVIN BUTLER, 6-0, 170, Richmond Academy of Augusta—Highly regarded for varsity duty next season, he has power and quickness. . . . Good on defense. . . . Also a possible threat to throw, though he's a left-hander. . . . Completed key pass to Bozoy Thomas against Auburn frosh.

TOMMY RUNYON, 5-8, 175, Jasper, Tenn.—Quick and aggressive, he figures to play a good bit in Big One. . . . Likes defense.

BARRY LEVINSON, 5-9, 167, Miami Beach, Fla.—Has seen little service, used mostly on defense, though he did hit Auburn for a four-yard gain. . . . Joined squad on his own.

BILL McCULLOUGH, 5-10, 185, Bartlesville, Okla.—He'll do extra point kicking and field goal booting for frosh. . . . Figures to be Bulldogs' best in a long while, though he'll have tough time beating out Durward Pennington next season.

DICKIE HOOTEN, 5-11, 175, Pensacola, Fla.—Real quick runner and turns corner in a hurry. . . . Good defender.

GEORGIA TECH

ZOLLIE SIRCY, 5-9, 170, Old Hickory, Tenn., and Columbia Military Academy—He'll do the job either way, on offense or defense. . . . Real quick and a fine defender. . . . Highly regarded by varsity coaches.

JOHN SALTSMAN, 5-9, 178, Bardonia, Ky., and KMI—Scored touchdown against Clemson freshmen. . . . Real swift and an excellent defender.

CANDLER BROOM, 5-9, 159, Decatur and Baylor Prep—Has good speed and will hit on defense. . . . Played football for Charlie Hall at Decatur, then had fine season under Humpy Heywood at Baylor.

BOBBY VAN FLAKE, 5-8, 160, Coosa of Rome—One of state's finer small school backs in 1958, he's possessed of good movements and picks spots well on running. . . . Good defender.

STEVE GARRETT, 5-7, 145, Northside of Atlanta—Excellent little scabbard, he played for Wayman Creel at Northside on 1957 AAA state championship team. . . . Was teammate of Ben Ferguson.

CAPSULE COMMENT: Georgia Tech would appear to have slight edge at right halfback slot because of Sircy and Saltsman. But Butler could nullify this with his all-around ability.

—ATKINSON.

Georgia Holds
'Biggest' Rally
For Tiger Tilt

ATHENS—The biggest pep rally in University of Georgia history is scheduled Thursday night in anticipation of the Georgia-Auburn football game Saturday in Sanford Stadium.

The annual "shirt-tail" parade of freshman boys will start the rally at 6:30 p.m., and a downtown gathering will climax the event at 7 p.m. The rally will feature the Dixie Redcoat band, Coach Wallace Butts, and football captains Don Soberdash and Jimmy Vickers.

Townfolks and students alike are expected to jam downtown Athens, in the area of the famous university arch, for the rally.—THOM.

Dickey, Lopat Hired
As Yankee Coaches

NEW YORK (AP)—Bill Dickey and Eddie Lopat, a pair of old favorites, rejoined the New York Yankees Wednesday as coaches to team up with holdovers Frank Crosetti and Ralph Houk.

Lopat, who pitched for five straight Yankee championship clubs after his acquisition from the Chicago White Sox 11 years ago, succeeded Jim Turner as pitching mentor. Dickey, who spent his entire playing career with the Yankees and managed them for part of the 1946 season, will serve as bullpen and batting coach.

Bill Dickey

In returning for his third season as Yankee first base coach, Houk squashed all rumors of his leaving the club to accept the managership of the Kansas City Athletics.

Although Houk declined to discuss the matter, it was definitely learned that he had rejected the Kansas City job, leaving the way open for the imminent announcement of George Selkirk as the new A's pilot.

The Associated Press reported last October 19 that Houk was Kansas City owner Arnold Johnson's first choice to succeed the departed Harry Craft as manager but if Houk turned it down, the job would be given to Selkirk, with Craft remaining in the organization.

"I've been with the New York organization for some years," Houk explained. "They've raised my family and have taken pretty good care of me."

lan filly Pensylvania bobbled and Australia's Vogel ran into her. Gustavo Avila, one of Venezuela's leading riders, slammed into the turf. Billy Camer, the young Australian jockey who also flew here for the race, went down.

Camer got up quickly, but the crowd feared for Avila who lay in a crumpled heap.

Avila was carried under the rail to the infield so he couldn't be trampled when the horses came around again. He soon recovered, however, and stood up as Bald Eagle flashed past, pulling up at the close of the race.

Neither Pensylvania nor Vogel went down, but they ran riderless around the course.

Lothridge Goes After
4-AA Scoring Lead

Gainesville quarterback Billy Lothridge's bid to overtake Westminster's Peyton Robinson for the 4-AA scoring championship highlights a slim Thursday Georgia high school football card.

Lothridge and Red Elephant buddies move into Athens' Sanford Stadium for a joust with Weyman Sellers' Trojans, and the senior quarterback needs 14 points to tie Robinson and 15 to go ahead. Robinson is the leader with 103 points, but his club has closed out its season; Lothridge

Syracuse Braces
For Big SweepOrangemen Near Titles
In Four NCAA Categories

NEW YORK (AP)—Top-ranked Syracuse, the leader in four principal statistical departments in major college football, stands a good chance of becoming the first team ever to sweep the national titles in all four.

NCAA Service Bureau statistics revealed that the unyielding Syracuse defense had performed so well in the second half against Penn State that its margins over runner-up Louisiana State in total defense and rushing defense are almost unbeatable.

The Orangemen also are well in front in total offense and first in scoring, though not by such a large margin.

The close game against Penn State took something off the Syracuse figures in all four departments. But statistically Syracuse showed its defensive strength in the second half, even while yielding two touchdowns.

Penn State, which had rushed for 114 yards in the first half, was limited to minus three yardage in the second. And the Orange yielded only 24 yards through the air.

So Syracuse wound up with a total defense average of 101.4 yards per game—the first time it has been over 100 yards this season. LSU in second place has

Speculative Issues Are Keenly Active

NEW YORK (AP)—An assortment of space age stocks and American Motors made big strides in a mixed stock market.

The observance of Veterans Day meant the closing of banks and many business houses but activity was keen among the more speculative issues.

American Motors topped the most-active list, recovering 5% points of recent losses on profit taking.

Motorola, up 9%, and Litton Industries, up 7%, touched new highs. At best, Motorola was about 13 points ahead during the day.

Meanwhile the steels and rails worked lower as the painstaking job of getting the steel mills back toward capacity operation was under way.

LAG IN STEEL
News that General Motors was to halt all passenger car production by Wednesday night because of steel shortages demonstrated that a lag there must be in getting over the ill effects of the 116-day steel walkout. GM dropped 1/2%.

GM's predicament, however, was credited to some degree for the renewed strength of American Motors, which is in better shape for steel supplies.

While good sales and earnings were held responsible for part of the gains by electronics, Wall Street analysts noted that some of these stocks have broken through old resistance points on their chart patterns and were theoretically good for a strong run up.

U.S. Rubber converted a slight gain into a net loss of 2% after raising the dividend to 55 cents from 50 cents, apparently a disappointment.

General Tire, whose rocket subsidiary, Aerojet, gained 3% on the American Stock Exchange, advanced 3% on the Big Board.

Corporate bonds advanced in fairly active trading. Most banks and brokerage houses specializing in U.S. government bonds were closed for Veterans Day, so there were no reports on trading in this category.

A Flat Statement on Security

"SECURITY"

—According to Mr. Webster's dictionary security means—the quality and condition of being secure. Specifically, freedom from exposure to danger; protection, assurance of safety, certainty and freedom from anxiety.

FACT 1

By definition funds invested at Decatur Federal offer "Security" unparalleled. Every dollar you invest at Decatur Federal is guaranteed and backed by an agency of the United States Government to $10,000. Cash is immediately available in full... with no commission, and no odd lot fees or deductions of any kind whatsoever. Proof positive is abundantly clear in the simple fact that not one person anywhere at any time has ever lost one single cent in a Decatur Federal Savings Account throughout the 32 years of its existence.

FACT 2

Not once in its history has Decatur Federal failed to pay a cash dividend at the end of any six-month period (and that's not once a year, mind you, but every six months).

FACT 3

The "Security" you enjoy at Decatur Federal could not be simpler or easier to own... no check of the market, no consultation, no consideration or decision whatsoever is necessary. You simply drop a check in the mail (Decatur Federal pays all postage both ways).

Beans Plunge On Estimate

CHICAGO (AP)—The long and strong bullish trend in soybean futures appeared to have been halted or slowed by the government's November estimate of 1959 yield.

Prices on the Board of Trade fell back two cents or more on all contracts as profit takers held command in the pit. The grains were mixed. Wheat and rye eased.

Let's All Talk Turkey!

By BARBARA SOMERVILLE
Constitution Food Editor

Now is the time for homemakers to start talking turkey. Unsurpassed in downright good flavor and holiday dinner drama, the succulent, tender, plump, golden gobbler deserves every homemaker's best efforts in selection and preparation. And that means you're once again faced with the big question: How big a bird for you?

We caught Mrs. J. W. Williams in a local store asking herself just that question. Straining to lift a big bird into her cart, she changed her mind in mid-air and decided it was too much for her small family of four. But then, what size would be just right?

Looking at the huge mound of turkeys she saw 8-lb., 12-lb., 16-lb. turkeys—some even larger. A wonderful selection—but very confusing when you're looking at a frozen turkey and wondering how much your family can eat.

"It's really not a problem," said a fellow shopper who was also looking over the turkeys. "You don't need to guess. Just decide how many servings of turkey you want your family to have, then consult this table."

The friendly shopper speaking to Mrs. Williams was Mrs. Betty Alexander, the University of Georgia Agricultural Extension Consumer Marketing Specialist.

Unlike Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Alexander was not doing her weekly shopping but was surveying the turkey market situation for her weekly market report. The information Mrs. Alexander gathers on the most economical buys of the week goes to home economists, teachers, school lunch managers, dietitians, restaurant associations as well as to producers and handlers. Ultimately it is meant to help homemakers get the most out of their food dollars.

BUYING GUIDE

The table Mrs. Alexander showed to Mrs. Williams was the following.

Ready-to-Cook Turkey (Lbs.)	Number of Servings
6 to 8	6 to 10
8 to 12	10 to 20
12 to 16	20 to 32
16 to 20	32 to 40
20 to 24	40 to 50

Mrs. Alexander went on to explain that if you are buying a bird 12 lbs. or over, you should allow $1\frac{1}{2}$ to $2\frac{1}{4}$ pound (ready-to-cook weight) per serving. If you are buying a turkey under 12 lbs., you should allow $\frac{3}{4}$ to 1 lb. per serving. Allowing $1\frac{1}{2}$ to $1\frac{3}{4}$ lbs. per person provides cooked turkey for another meal.

She also explained that the exact number of servings you can expect to get will depend on the quality of the turkey and correct cooking and carving. A large bird is more economical—if you can use a large bird.

Usually hen turkeys up to about 16 lbs. have more meat than a tom the same weight. That's why hen turkeys are generally priced a little more than toms.

LOOK FOR MORE THAN SIZE

Mrs. Alexander pointed out that high-quality turkeys have a thick, meaty, long breast, heavy covering over back and frame, fat in the skin so it rolls to your touch.

Thin skin with a bluish cast means the bird is not as well finished. It should have been left to fatten longer. White or yellowish skin color is the color to look for.

Since it isn't possible to roll the skin of a frozen bird, color and plumpness will have to be your guides to follow. There should be no bruises or discolorations. Dark, blistered or dried skin indicates poor freezing or storage methods.

At this point the ladies were interrupted by Mr. W. S. Culbertson, the meat cutter. "Another guide to look for is the federal inspection stamp," he told them as he pointed to the stamp on the turkey they were inspecting. Mrs. Alexander agreed: "All poultry sold, shipped or handled in interstate commerce is federally inspected and approved for wholesomeness."

When it has been inspected it may be graded for quality."

"Standards for grading are based on the shape of the bird, meatiness, amount of fat distributed in and under the skin, and the extent of bruises, tears, discoloration and pin feathers. The grades are U.S. Grade A, B and C."

"And," said Mrs. Alexander, "the higher the quality the greater the proportion of edible meat and the fewer dressing defects."

COLD TURKEY

"Is it safe for me to buy a frozen stuffed turkey?" asked Mrs. Williams as Mr. Culbertson wandered back to his meat cutting.

Mrs. Alexander told her that it was, but that it is not safe to stuff and freeze the turkey yourself at home. Commercial blast freezing takes place so rapidly that the center temperature drops well below zero very rapidly. This is not possible to do in a home freezer and harmful bacteria may develop and cause food poisoning.

And when it comes to defrosting a frozen bird, it is best to leave it in its original wrapper and place it on a refrigerator shelf. Allow 2 to 4 days defrosting time—depending upon the size of the bird. Once defrosted it can be kept 2 to 3 days in a refrigerator 38 degrees or less. Once defrosted, though, never re-freeze it before cooking.

As I slipped away with the photographer I heard Mrs. Williams telling Mrs. Alexander the way she usually roasted her turkey. I never did find out whether she bought the big turkey or a smaller one—or even if she bought any turkey.

Try Broiling a Chuck Roast Or Round Steak for Flavor

By BARBARA SOMERVILLE
Constitution Food Editor

Tired of pot-roast? Then try broiling and roasting chuck and top-round steak. These economical beef cuts turn out just as tender and flavorful when broiled or roasted as when braised or pot-roasted.

Traditionally, the dry-heat methods of cooking (broiling and roasting) were recommended only for tender beef cuts—those from the rib and loin sections of an animal.

Professional taste panels have recently rated chuck and top round just as tender and flavorful when broiled or roasted as when braised.

When selecting any meat for roasting or broiling look for meat which has the least amount of white connective tissue streaked through the lean—some fat marbling (which is creamy in color) is desirable for tenderness.

Low to moderate cooking temperatures of 300 to 350 degrees are especially important for the less tender cuts when the dry heat method of roasting or broiling is used. Broil 3 to 4 inches away from the source of the heat.

Remember that the degree to which meat is cooked has more influence on juiciness than the amount of fat in the meat. Overcooked beef quickly loses juiciness.

FRANK, the copy boy, tells me his favorite method of preparing top round steak is to slather it with butter—top it with mushrooms if you like—then wrap in foil and place it under the broiler for about one hour.

He's right. It is a good method—no pan to wash and it's quickly wrapped and placed into the broiler and no further attention need be given until serving time. It's deliciously tender and juicy too.

Next time I see him I'm going to tell him how to do his job!

IT'S PERFECTLY SAFE to store partially used canned foods in their own sterile containers in your refrigerator. Canned foods have been cooked and, once they've been exposed to air, they stay wholesome as long as any other cooked foods. If you wish to transfer them to a covered bowl or dish, that's fine, too.

SOME FOODS DON'T HOME FREEZE WELL

GRAVIES and CREAM SAUCES may separate or curdle because water in them separates as ice crystals and causes the starch emulsion to break down. The sauce can be re-blended in foods that can be stirred during heating for serving.

CUSTARDS break down during freezing because water changes to ice crystals and separates out and because the coagulated protein of the eggs is altered so that it is no longer soluble.

COOKED EGG WHITE becomes tough and rubbery when eggs are frozen.

Salads Can Be Quick and Fun

It's fun to make salads that don't take too much time. Here's a perfect example, "Cream-Top Peach Salad." All you do is fill gorgeous, canned cling peach halves with cream cheese moistened with milk or cream and made to taste different and delightful with chopped ripe olives and celery.

This is a pretty salad and one you and your family will enjoy again and again.

CREAM-TOP PEACH SALAD
Salad greens
¼ cup ripe olives
1 (3-oz.) pkg. cream cheese
2 tbsps. milk or cream
½ cup finely chopped celery
Salt to taste

Drain peaches and arrange on salad greens. Cut olives into pieces. Soften cheese with a fork and blend in milk. Stir in olives, celery and salt. Heap into peach halves. Makes 6 servings.

FROZEN JAMS sometimes form white crystals during storage. The crystals look like mold and may spread through the mixture once they have started to form—they are caused by the sugar combining with the water in the jam. They spoil the appearance and texture but are not harmful.

FROZEN BATTERS lose leavening power when ice crystals form because too little liquid is left then to hold the carbon dioxide in solution. Cakes made from the batter have slightly less volume than cakes made from fresh batter.

Angelfood cake freezes more successfully than cakes that contain egg yolk and fat. Egg-yolk sponge cake develops rancid off-flavors. Lemon juice or another antioxidant added to the batter retards the development of off-flavor.

YEAST DOUGHS sometimes do not rise properly after freezing because the yeasts lose ability to form the carbon dioxide needed or because that formed before freezing has been lost, as in batters.

SOME FROZEN MEAT FATS become rancid in a short time—the fat from turkey and pork gives the most trouble. FROZEN COOKED POULTRY often fails to retain the flavor and texture of the freshly cooked products. Off-flavors develop faster in frozen fried chicken than in uncooked frozen fryers.

Stuff Gobbler With Clam Mixture

If a large roasting chicken is to be the star of your Thanksgiving feast, this Olive-Clam Stuffing would be an excellent choice for the dressing. Ripe olives give rich flavor and combine deliciously with minced clams.

This is a perfectly seasoned dressing, light and mild in flavor to suit all tastes.

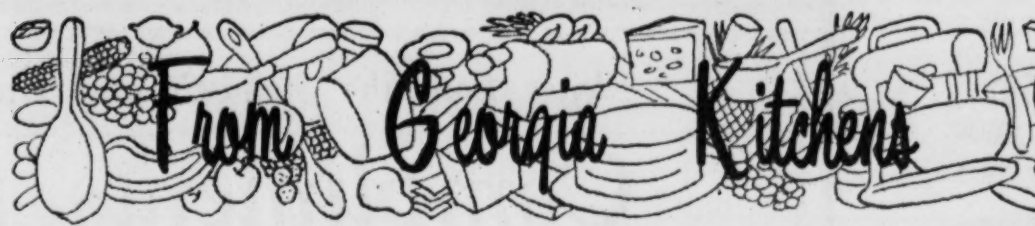

OLIVE-CLAM STUFFING

1 tbs. finely chopped onion
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup butter or margarine
4 cups soft bread crumbs

$\frac{1}{4}$ cup thinly sliced celery
 $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. salt
 $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. thyme
 $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. black pepper
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup drained minced clams
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup liquid from clams

Cut olives into large pieces. Cook onion slowly in butter until tender but not browned. Pour over bread crumbs. Add olives, celery, salt, thyme and pepper and toss lightly to blend. Add clams and sprinkle clam broth over crumbs to moisten lightly. Toss to mix thoroughly. Enough stuffing for large roasting chicken.

Make 3 times this amount for a 12-pound turkey.

Here are more of your letters. I have not tested these recipes as I assume they are your home-tested recipes and if they are favorites of yours, they will be enjoyed by others, too.

I enjoy this column very much. I look forward each Thursday to that section that has so many grand recipes.

I would like to see recipes of old-fashioned egg custard and also buttermilk custard. Also I would like to have a good recipe for making caramel icing.

Thank you for making it possible to own so many different fine recipes—recipes are a hobby of mine.

MRS. ORA OWENS
Madison

I noticed in your column that Margaret Lynn of Atlanta was very much interested in a Cottage Cheese Cake or a Cottage Cheese Pie. Here are a few she can try:

CHEESE CAKE (A)

Coating for Pan:
 $\frac{1}{2}$ lb. graham crackers
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup sugar
1 tsp. cinnamon
Filling for Cake:
2 lbs. cottage cheese
1 cup milk
4 tbs. flour
1 cup sugar
1 tsp. vanilla
4 eggs, beaten

Roll graham crackers until fine, add all the ingredients and mix well. Line the well-greased baking pans and press down well. Fill with cheese filling and cover with more graham cracker crumbs. Bake in moderate oven for one hour.

CHEESE CAKE (B)

Coating for Pan:
1 lb. graham crackers
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup sugar
Filling for Cake:
2 lbs. dry cottage cheese
1 cup sugar
4 eggs
 $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. vanilla
 $\frac{3}{4}$ cup melted butter
 $1\frac{1}{4}$ cups sweet cream
1 tsp. vanilla

Rub cheese very fine, mix sugar, beat eggs and mix. Add cream and vanilla. Beat very creamy. Roll crackers fine, take couple spoonfuls of cracker crumbs and melted butter until well mixed. Add sugar and cinnamon. Put into deep buttered tin and pat down until very firm for lower crust. Pour cheese mixture onto crumb layer and sprinkle couple tablespoons of cracker mixture over top. Bake in slow oven for one hour.

CHEESE CAKE (C)

1 cup sugar
4 egg yolks
Pinch of salt
4 tbs. flour
1 cup milk or cream
4 egg whites, stiffly beaten vanilla or orange flavoring
3 tbs. butter
Bread crumbs

Mix the cheese, sugar, egg yolks, salt, flour and cream and beat well. Add the egg whites and flavoring. Melt the butter in saucepan and mix with the bread crumbs. Sprinkle side and bottom of pan with the bread crumbs. Pour the mixture in and bake in slow oven, 325 degrees, about one hour.

Incidentally, if you'd like to have any type of recipes along Czechoslovakian lines just consider yourself free to write or call. I'd be only too glad to accommodate you. I love to cook but don't care for baking. After all, I work at National Biscuit Co.

WISH SOME OF THE READERS would send a Fruit Cake recipe.

If you're tired of fried chicken, try this recipe—it's fine. Wash and cut up your chicken. Place it in a deep pie dish, salt and pepper to taste. Pour one can of cream of chicken soup over the chicken and place in a preheated oven (375 degrees) for 45 minutes.

CORNISH HENS ARE VERY DELICIOUS when prepared by the following method. Pheasants also may be cooked in this manner.

CORNISH HENS

3 Cornish hens
1 tbs. salt
 $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. black pepper
3 bay leaves
3 cloves garlic
3 whole cloves
3 tsp. chopped parsley
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup chopped celery leaves
3 slices lemon
3 slices bacon
10 peppercorns
1 small onion sliced
6 mushrooms
1 cup chicken stock
1 cup turkey or other sweet wine
3 tbs. red currant jelly

Rub salt and pepper inside and outside cornish hens. In each cavity put $\frac{1}{2}$ of the spices and 1 slice of lemon. Cover breasts with bacon. Skewer cavity and arrange in shallow pan. Toss peppercorns, onion and mushrooms with fowl. Pour stock and wine over hens. Roast at 325 degrees $1\frac{1}{4}$ to $1\frac{1}{2}$ hours, depending upon size. Baste occasionally.

To make gravy, transfer birds to hot serving plate. Stir jelly into liquid in pan and heat. Add more salt if needed. Serve with wild rice.

COTTAGE CHEESE PIE

3 eggs
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup sugar
1 tsp. grated lemon rind
 $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. salt
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup light cream
2 cups cottage cheese, mashed with fork or beaten with electric mixer
2 tbs. flour
1 tbs. lemon juice

Beat eggs lightly. Add sugar gradually and beat well. Pour in rest of ingredients and mix thoroughly. Pour into unbaked pie shell. Combine 2 tbs. sugar with $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. ground cinnamon and sprinkle over pie mixture. Bake 40 minutes in 350 degree oven.

1-Egg Cake Fruit-Filled

Here's a one-egg cake that's company fare. Quick fruited cake is a tender, lightly spiced cake filled with bits of fruit and sprinkled with flaked coconut before baking. Canned fruit cocktail supplies the five fruits which richly flavor this novel cake.

When cut into squares and served warm with whipped cream it makes an elegant dessert.

Drain the canned fruit cocktail thoroughly before folding it into the batter. This is important any time you add fruit cocktail to cake, cookie or quick bread batters to keep them from becoming too moist.

Save the rich syrup to use in fruit beverages, to spark lightly with wine vinegar and spices and baste meats and poultry during cooking, and to use as the basis of pudding sauces.

QUICK FRUITED CAKE

1 (No. 303) can fruit cocktail
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup sugar
 $1\frac{1}{2}$ tbs. baking powder
 $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. salt
 $\frac{1}{8}$ tsp. powdered cloves
2 tbs. butter or margarine
1 egg
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup milk
1 tsp. grated orange rind
 $\frac{1}{2}$ cup flaked coconut
Whipped cream

Drain fruit cocktail thoroughly. Sift flour with sugar, baking powder, salt and cloves. Cut in butter until mixture resembles coarse meal. Beat egg lightly and add milk and orange rind. Stir into dry mixture, blending well. Add well drained fruit cocktail and mix lightly. Turn into well greased 9-inch square baking pan and sprinkle with coconut. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) about 25 minutes, or until cake tests done and is browned on top. Makes 9 servings. Serve warm, topped with whipped cream.

Try New Dutch Cake

Breakfast is such a treat when you serve a luscious coffee cake, warm from the oven, that fills the room with its inviting, spicy aroma.

Now there is an unusual new recipe for a Dutch-type coffee cake that has a surprise topping of sliced bananas. The banana slices are placed on top of the cake batter before the cinnamon-nut mixture is added. All the flavors meld together magically during baking, and the result is a cake in which the rich, cinnamon-nut flavors are happily complemented by the delicate, mellow bananas.

The bananas provide a distinctive flavor treat and also

BANANA DUTCH COFFEE CAKE
1½ cups sifted flour
2 tsp. double-acting baking powder
¾ tsp. salt
¾ cup sugar
½ cup shortening
1 egg, well-beaten
½ cup milk
3 firm bananas

Streusel Topping
3 tblsp. butter or margarine
½ cup sugar
½ cup flour
1 tsp. cinnamon
½ cup chopped nuts

Preheat oven to 375 degrees F. (moderately hot).

Sift flour, baking powder, salt and sugar into mixing bowl. Cut in shortening. Combine egg and milk and add to flour mixture, stir until blended. Turn the stiff dough into a well-greased cake pan (8x8x2 inches) and spread evenly over bottom of pan.

Cover surface of dough with overlapping pieces of banana. Cream butter, gradually add sugar and beat well. Blend in flour, cinnamon and nuts. Sprinkle streusel topping over cake. Bake 25-35 minutes, or until cake tester comes out clean. Serve hot.

Quick-to-Make Almond Crepes

How often are there times when you want to plan a very special party with special refreshments? It doesn't happen every week but probably more often than most of us have ideas for. For a unique dessert try these Almond-Maple Crepes. They are in a class of their own for exotic party refreshments.

The crepes are made ahead of time and placed in the freezer. A happy note is that the tender crepes are so easily made with your favorite pancake mix. It eliminates extra measuring of ingredients so kitchen time is cut to a minimum.

Besides the easy-to-make feature, crepes are a gourmet dish that will give you a "good cook" reputation when you serve them.

About 15 minutes before time to serve, remove the Almond-Maple Crepes from your freezer. Serve them topped with golden maple-blended syrup.

ALMOND-MAPLE CREPES

Makes 18 Crepes

Crepes

- 3 eggs, beaten
- 1/4 cup milk
- 1/2 tsp. vanilla
- 3/4 cup pancake mix

Filling

- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup toasted slivered almonds
- 1 cup whipping cream, whipped

Topping

Maple-blended syrup

Combine beaten eggs and milk. Add vanilla and pancake mix, stirring until smooth. Place about a teaspoon of batter in a small frying pan and heat until butter bubbles. Pour in enough batter to coat bottom of pan with a thin layer. Bake until delicately browned on under side; turn and bake on other side. Cool. Repeat for each crepe.

When cool, fill each crepe with whipped cream filling (made by combining sugar, almonds and whipped cream). Roll up. Wrap in foil and place in freezer or freezing compartment of refrigerator. Let thaw about 15 minutes before serving. (Pancakes may be filled and served immediately, if desired.) Serve with maple-blended syrup.

Doughnuts, Cider Rate Top as Snack

For informal get-togethers this fall, sugary whole wheat doughnuts and mugs of cider or coffee rate tops with everyone. The nut-like flavor of whole wheat doughnuts tastes extra-good after a football game or on a chilly evening when the family's together.

Made with enriched and whole wheat flour these doughnuts are good for you . . . and they are easy to make, too!

WHOLE WHEAT DOUGHNUTS

- 2 1/2 cups sifted enriched flour
- 1 tbs. baking powder
- 1/2 tsp. soda
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1/2 tsp. nutmeg
- 1/4 tsp. cinnamon
- 1 3/4 cups whole wheat flour
- 2 eggs
- 1/2 cup granulated sugar
- 1/2 cup brown sugar
- 3 tbs. melted shortening
- 2 tbs. grated lemon rind
- 1/2 tsp. vanilla extract
- 1 cup buttermilk or sour milk

Sift together flour, baking powder, soda, salt, nutmeg and cinnamon. Add whole wheat flour. Beat eggs. Add sugars and beat until light. Add shortening, lemon rind and vanilla extract. Mix well. Add flour mixture to egg mixture alternately with buttermilk or sour milk. Mix lightly to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board or pastry cloth. Roll about 1/4 inch thick. Cut with lightly floured doughnut cutter. Fry in deep hot fat (365 degrees F.) turning frequently until browned. Drain thoroughly on absorbent paper. Dust with cinnamon, if desired. Makes 2 dozen 2 1/2-inch doughnuts.

SUNDAY SPECIAL

Many times convicted, Margaret Hodges, Atlanta's lottery queen, has spent little time in jail. Atlanta Constitution staff writer Jack Nelson begins a series Sunday on this mother of two sons whose troubles have piled up recently. It looks like she may face a long prison confinement. Her time in jail so far has been about as stormy as her escapades outside.

The dexterity with which these hands perform here is fast disappearing. In the day of the filtered, roll-your-own cigarettes are an all but obsolete art form. Journal staff writer Mike Edwards filters facts for this Sunday story.

Add Zest to Sherbet

When the dinner menu is filling bring on a refreshing dessert that's a "just right" ending to a good meal. This Cranberry Lemon Sherbet whips up in seconds.

It's satisfying, yet light and cooling and every member of the family will love it.

This sherbet is good, too, atop avocado rings for a luncheon.

CRANBERRY LEMON SHERBET

1 (1-lb.) can whole cranberry sauce

1 pt. lemon sherbet, softened

Break up the contents of the whole cranberry sauce with a fork. Fold in lemon sherbet. Pour into freezing tray and freeze until firm. Makes 6 servings.

Duchess Potatoes Are Easy to Do

Any homemaker can make good mashed potatoes if she starts with the right potato. Not all potatoes will become velvety-smooth, white and light-as-a-cloud, good-to-the-last-mouthful Mashed Potatoes. So have a care in your shopping.

Idahos of baking fame mash to a snowy fluff whether your 20 minutes. Serve at once.

As nests, fill with buttered peas or butter-browned mushrooms and use as main course accompaniment, or fill with Turkey a la King (fancier-up creamed turkey) and use as the entree.

Or use Duchess Potato mix-

Roll in fine, dry bread crumbs, then in a mixture of 1 egg beaten with a fork and 1 tablespoon cold water, then into the crumbs again, coating well. Shape nicely. Be sure each "apple" is well-covered with crumbs. Allow to stand on waxed paper for

They may be kept in a warm oven until ready to serve, for not more than 10 minutes. Before serving, dust rounded side with paprika and tuck a sprig of parsley into top of each, for stem and leaves. Makes 10 to 12 potato apples.

These Russet Potato Apples make an attractive garnish for a plate of cold sliced turkey or ham, but please, not for the platter when Father has to carve.

MASHED POTATOES CAN BE PLAIN OR FANCY
Pipe Them Into Nests For Vegetables Or Roll Into Potato Apples

choice is the russet - skinned beauties in the vegetable stands or the packages, found on your grocer's shelves, of "quick mashed" made from Idaho-grown potatoes, as labels will show.

DUCHESS POTATOES

Duchess Potatoes sound pretty fancy, but they are easy-to-do and possess the advantage of being prepared earlier in the day or even the day before, covered with aluminum foil or waxed paper and kept in refrigerator until ready to use.

Prepare mashed potatoes for 6 servings using, instead of milk and butter alone, 2 beaten eggs or 4 egg yolks, 2 tablespoons butter, and only enough milk to make smooth. The mixture should be quite thick. Whip until well mixed. For interesting flavor, a dash of nutmeg may be added along with the salt and pepper.

Arrange with spoon or pastry tube or bag in mounds or nests on buttered cookie sheet. Brush with melted butter or, just before baking, with a mixture of 1 egg yolk beaten with 1 tablespoon milk. Place very low under broiler heat or in a 375 degree F. (moderately hot) oven until potatoes are hot and lightly browned, about

RUSSETT POTATO APPLES

This fascinating version of mashed potatoes makes a good conversation piece both before eating, for these Potato Apples have a lot of eye-appeal, and after the fork goes into them when folk discover the "core"—sliced mushrooms in butter or a melting square of fine aged Cheddar cheese.

These are made from the Duchess Potato recipe, though leftover cold thick mashed potatoes may be used. They may be made several hours in advance and deep-fried a few minutes before needed.

How to make:

Prepare Duchess Potato mixture. Allow to cool. Then pick up 1/2 cup (the 1/2 cup measure of the nested measuring cup set is fine for this); make a hollow in the scoop of potatoes. Fill each hollow with a scant tablespoon of canned sliced mushrooms in butter (cold) or with a small cube of sharp Cheddar cheese. Shape into a ball.

Mrs. M. V. Filbert

MRS. FILBERT'S MARGARINE AND YOUR FAMILY'S HEALTH

If you use Mrs. Filbert's Margarine, you know its flavor secret... a taste so sweet and fresh no other margarine has ever been able to duplicate it.

But Mrs. Filbert's offers more than delicious flavor. Today there are important facts you should know about Mrs. Filbert's and your family's health.

Much is being written about fats in the diet. Some claim that saturated animal fats build up cholesterol in the blood, while unsaturated vegetable oils may help reduce cholesterol.

Since evidence is still inconclusive in this area, we believe your doctor is the one to advise you about food fats, cholesterol, and your diet.

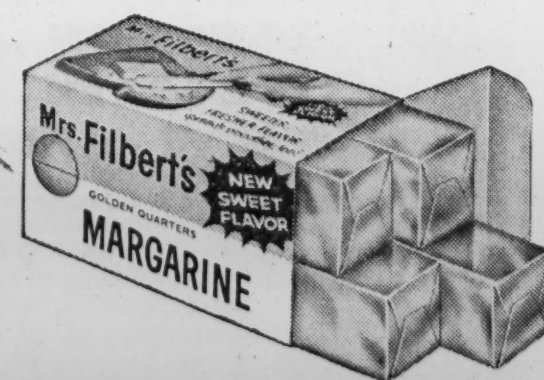

However, we think you would like to know that Mrs. Filbert's Margarine is made from only the finest domestic vegetable oils, which contain no cholesterol. These oils, partially hydrogenated for texture, remain over 80% unsaturated in Mrs. Filbert's. They are specially blended, delicately flavored in a secret way, and enriched with vitamins A and D. Salt content is very low.

As a result, Mrs. Filbert's is a nutritious, healthful food... highly digestible, providing quick energy, helping your body make use of important proteins and carbohydrates.

Your whole family can enjoy Mrs. Filbert's with confidence.

Use Mrs. Filbert's as a delicious tablespread, as a flavorful seasoning... as a digestible shortening for all your cooking, baking, frying. You'll taste the reason so many people prefer Mrs. Filbert's to any spread, regardless of price.

Scallops Make 1-Dish Meal

Just what is a scallop? Why, it is a member of the shellfish family and is about three and one-half inches around. The part we eat is the meaty muscle on the inside.

Use either fresh or frozen scallops for this tasty Scallop Bake. For the filling the white, meaty seafood flavor is in perfect harmony with the other ingredients—onion flakes and plump peas. All of this is encased in a white sauce and then topped with a crusty tomato-corn bread topping. The topping can easily be made by using a package of your favorite easy corn bread mix.

SCALLOP BAKE
Top With Cornbread

SCALLOP BAKE
Makes 8 servings

Base:
3 tbsps. butter or margarine

- 1/4 cup flour
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1/4 tsp. pepper
- 1 1/2 cups milk
- 1 tbsps. onion flakes
- 1 lb. fresh or frozen scallops, thawed and well drained
- 1 10-oz. pkg. frozen peas

Corn Bread Topping:

- 1 egg
- 1/2 cup tomato juice
- 1 10-oz. pkg. corn bread mix

Heat oven to hot (425 degrees F.). For base, melt butter in saucepan; stir in flour, salt and pepper. Cook until bubbly, stirring constantly. Add onion flakes, scallops and peas; cook 10 minutes. Pour into 8x12-inch baking dish.

For corn bread topping, put egg and tomato juice into bag of mix. Squeeze upper part of bag to force air out. Close top of bag by holding tightly between thumb and index finger.

With bag resting on table, mix by working bag vigorously with fingers. (Mix about 40 seconds or until egg is completely blended.) Squeeze bag to empty batter over hot scallop mixture. Sprinkle poppy seeds over corn bread. Bake in preheated oven (425 degrees F.) 20 to 25 minutes.

Make Bread Into Onion Rolls

A hot bread adds so much interest to any meal. Here's a delicious one to prepare yourself, using sliced fresh bread. Toasted Onion Rolls are a wonderful accompaniment to salads to complete a luncheon or supper menu.

TOASTED ONION ROLLS

- 1 tbsps. instant minced onion or, 1/4 cup finely chopped green onion
- 1 tbsps. water
- 1/2 tsp. garlic powder or, 1 crushed small clove garlic
- 1/2 cup soft butter or margarine
- 1/4 cup grated American cheese

12 slices fresh bread

Measure instant minced onion into water and let stand a few minutes. (Omit water if raw onion is used.) Combine onion, garlic, butter and cheese. Remove crusts from bread; flatten each slice lightly with rolling pin. Spread bread with about half of onion butter. Roll up each slice like jelly roll; skewer with toothpick. Melt remaining onion butter and brush generously over rolls. Arrange on baking sheet and toast in hot oven (425 degrees F.) 8 to 10 minutes or until crisp and rich golden brown.

Remove picks and serve hot. Makes one dozen rolls.

As I See It

Avoid the Shadows, Julie Harris Urges

By PAUL JONES

This might come as a jolt to some of you den mothers, but Julie Harris, the Broadway and TV actress, says it isn't enough for a woman to exist in the shadow of her husband's career—she ought to get out and create her own little "segment."

If you want a definition of "segment" I'd suggest that you tune in Hallmark Hall of Fame Sunday night and see Henrik Ibsen's "A Doll's House."

According to Miss Harris, it is just loaded with all sorts of messages for you girls.

Miss Harris, by the way, will portray the central character, that of a doll-like wife who walks out on a life of over-protection—whatever that is.

Amplifying her remark about the "segment" each woman should create for herself, Miss Harris said:

"Every married woman should create some special little segment of a world into which she can escape at times, in which she can relax, with relish, in which she can grow and develop."

The actress remarked that for a friend of hers, the "segment" is herb gardening. "She grew her own garden, wrote a book on the subject, had it printed and sold it through newspaper ads," she said. "It was her own personal joy, fulfillment, achievement and retreat. The label on another door to a private world may be sculpting or reading, or modern dancing, or volunteer hospital work or politics."

"An unmarried friend of mine told me during rehearsals the other day that women were a lot better off before playwrights and politicians started emancipating us."

"Any woman in her right mind would trade all of her so-called 'rights' for the very things Nora (she's the doll-like heroine of the play) walked out on—a husband, a home, children."

THIS MIGHT NOT gee-haw with your thoughts on the matter, but Miss Harris feels "women often lose their private ambitions, their own personal dreams and drives, submerged ing them in marriage and motherhood."

Then the actress, who is married and a mother herself, hastened to add:

"I am not a feminist. Quite the contrary. I believe women can exist fully only in relation to men. Most of us want more than anything else the completeness of love and marriage. What I'm saying is that a woman needs to find a type of fulfillment on her own."

If you pay attention Sunday night I'm sure you will read into it Ibsen's little message of women's independence.

DICK CLARK DID a real switch on the old interview bit the other day on Bandstand.

He usually asks the teen-age stars who appear on this show all about themselves—about their hobbies, records, movies, et cetera.

When Annette Funicello appeared on the show the other day, what did he ask Annette?

He asked her about Fabian and Frankie Avalon, who have been getting a steady build-up by Clark for some months.

Many people are beginning to wonder why all this fuss about Avalon and Fabian. Why not a word or two about Elvis Presley or Ed "Kookie" Byrnes or Bobby Darin?

MRS. W. B. HARRISON of Athens writes: "There is a prerequisite for forgiveness. That is repentance. Ingrid Bergman has never expressed repentance for her sins. Charles Van Doren has and for this reason he deserves another chance."

"I know of a number of people who did not see Ingrid Bergman on television, nor attend any showings of her movies. There are still some who have set high moral standards and try to live by them."

BLOSSOM VISITS ED—Blossom Seeley visits Ed Sullivan in his New York apartment to discuss her appearance on the Sullivan show Sunday at 8 p.m. on Channel 5. Blossom, wife of the late Benny Fields, will sing her version of "Teasin' Rag," which she introduced to Broadway in her first musical, "The Hen-Pecks," back in 1911.

SCOUTING TV TONIGHT

Is This a Poke at Quiz Biz?

BEST BET—There's a lot to playhouse 90's production Thursday "The Hidden Image," which is applicable to television's quiz scandals.

Except for the fact that Franchot Tone plays a politician, he could be a fictionalized Charles Van Doren. He is one of those above-reproach types—until George Grizzard, as an investigating committee counsel, starts probing. Then the hidden image of the title comes out; it is Tone's prejudice in favor of an old classmate, played by Martin Gabel. Tone then delivers a Nixon-type television speech, to defend his actions. This is Fred Coe's first production of the season for the program, and another good one from the pen of writer David Karp, one of TV's best. The coincidence of this production so close to the quiz hearings is probably no more than just that; it had been planned for some months. And, basically, it is an entertainment, not a message play. 9:30-11 (CBS).

8:30-9 (Ch. 11)—Thursday's Donna Reed Show is one of the best the series has yet presented. It dishes up a heaping portion of reality, sugar-coated with some humor. It tells of the problems of the Stones' son, Jeff, in adjusting to a new teacher, and the new teacher's even more ticklish problem of adjusting to her first class. Naturally, Donna straightens everything out—and that part of it is a bit too pat—but the situation is presented with warmth and humor.

8:30-9 (Ch. 5)—The Betty Hutton Show Thursday night stretches coincidence to the breaking point, but if you don't mind the illogicality of it all, the program may amuse you. Betty, in her capacity of millionairess, wants to build a playground for underprivileged kids.

Betty, in her capacity of ex-rooming house resident, wants to save her old home from being torn down to make way for some unnamed project. Put one and one together and you have a plot too far-fetched to be true. Betty picked out the 79-year-old actress (Cheerio Meredith) who plays her old landlady, after seeing her in a local play. This is in line with her philosophy of having a hand in every phase of the production.

Plummer, Roman Join 'The Philadelphia Story'

By RICHARD F. SHEPARD

(Copyright 1959 by the New York Times Co.)

NEW YORK—Christopher Plummer, Ruth Roman and Don de Fore have been added to the cast of "The Philadelphia Story" on NBC-TV Dec. 7.

The three performers will join Mary Astor, Diana Lynn and Young in the drama to be shown on the Special Tonight series. Plummer will appear in an earlier drama Sunday, Nov. 15, on NBC. He will star on the Hallmark Hall of Fame telecast of "A Doll's House."

Sen. George A. Smathers will discuss the local elections and relations between the United States and Latin America on Face the Nation Sunday. The Florida Democrat is chairman of the Latin American Trade Subcommittee of the Senate Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee. He also heads the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee. The program will be broadcast by the CBS on TV at 12:30 p.m. and on radio at 9:30 p.m.

"Aida" will open the broadcast series of the Metropolitan Opera over the Columbia Broadcasting System radio network on Nov. 23. The Saturday afternoon performances will include three new productions to be aired in the first half of the season. "The Gypsy Baron," by Johann Strauss, will be heard in English on Dec. 5. Birgit Nilsson will make her American radio debut Jan. 9. The Swedish soprano will appear in "Tristan and Isolde." On Jan. 23, listeners may hear a new production of "Le Nozze di Figaro" directed by Cyril Ritchard.

A new enterprises division has been formed by the NBC to handle the concern's investments abroad and at home. Alfred R. Stern, formerly director of NBC's international operations, has been elected vice president in charge of the new unit.

Robert W. Sarnoff, NBC's board chairman, said the move will centralize all of the network's activities, foreign and domestic, into one operating division.

Try Avocado Stuffed, Fall Salad Delight

Avocados are an attractive addition to a fall fruit bowl arrangement. Their sleek green surface and interesting shape invite attractive combinations.

Although most devoted avocado lovers prefer to eat the fruit out of the unpeeled halves without embellishment, or sprinkled with just a little lime juice to prevent darkening, there are many other possibilities. One is to use the avocado half as a container for a salad mixture. The cavity remaining when the one large seed is removed provides a perfect cup in each half for filling with a tasty mixture. A recipe follows for one such treat.

FLORIDA AVOCADO SALAD DELIGHT

1 tsp. prepared mustard
2 tps. vinegar
2 tbsps. mayonnaise or salad dressing
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1/4 tsp. Tabasco
1/2 cup finely diced green pepper
1/2 cup diced cooked ham
1 1/2 cups cottage cheese

Cut avocados in half, lengthwise; remove pit. Brush cut halves with lime juice to prevent discoloration. Blend together mustard, vinegar, mayonnaise, Worcestershire sauce and Tabasco. Stir in remaining ingredients. Spoon into avocado halves. Garnish with radish slices, if desired. Yield: Four servings.

Buy firm avocados for fruit bowl use. Once the skin color starts to turn brown and the fruit is soft to light pressure of the hands, it should either be refrigerated or eaten immediately for that is when it is ripe and at peak flavor. Of course, if you are buying fruit for use the same day, choose avocados that are soft to the touch.

Try Swedish Pancakes For Tasty Dessert

Swedish pancakes are the queen of all griddle cakes.

These paper-thin delicacies are most often filled with fruit or preserves and sprinkled with sugar to be served as a dessert.

They are delicious, too, topped with butter and syrup for breakfast. Or for a more substantial luncheon dish they may be filled with cottage cheese and topped with a fruit sauce.

The batter for Swedish pancakes has a high proportion of milk and eggs to flour, so the pancakes are extremely thin. And because they're so thin, these pancakes must be turned with care to avoid tearing. However, their delicate texture and rich flavor makes them well worth this extra bit of patience.

Your family will ask for many repeat performances once they've been served these Swedish pancakes. So try them soon with your choice of toppings.

SWEDISH PANCAKES

2 eggs, beaten
2 cups milk
2 tbsps. melted butter
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
1/4 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. sugar

Combine eggs, milk and butter and beat well. Add sifted dry ingredients gradually, beating constantly during addition. Pour 3 tablespoons batter onto hot griddle for each cake and bake until top is bubbly and edges look cooked. Turn and cook until remaining side is brown. Fill with jelly, preserves or fruit, roll and dust with confectioner's sugar. Or if preferred, serve plain with butter and confectioner's sugar or syrup. Makes 16 to 18 pancakes 4 to 5 inches in diameter.

Nut-Fudge Dip Tip

When dipping nutmeats into a fudge mixture to coat the nuts, put a little of the candy mixture into a small container to make the dipping easy. The rest of the fudge should be kept over hot water until needed.

Slim Cheese for Dieters

If you are finding your guests are timid of rich dips and you suspect it may be caused by calorie watching, cottage cheese is your answer. It will substitute for sour cream in most dip recipes. Serve vegetable strips instead of crackers—they are delightfully crisp and nutritious, too—I think you'll find guests will do more nibbling. Besides, vegetable sticks are very colorful.

Here is one slim dip recipe

SLIM DIP

1 tbslp. instant minced onion
1 tsp. seasoned salt
2 pint cartons small curd cottage cheese
1 or 2 tbslp. finely chopped parsley or pimiento

Combine onion, seasoned salt and cottage cheese. Beat until well blended. Refrigerate several hours to blend flavors. Stir in parsley or pimiento. Makes about 3 cups.
